AERIAL LINER WILL CARRY PASSENGERS

Local Airport to Be Landing Field for Ship Flying Between Two Cities

The Glendale Airport will be the southern terminus of the proposed Los Angeles-to-San Francisco aerial route which will start in about six weeks, according to an announcement made today by W. B. Kinner, Glendale airplane manufacturer, following a conference with officials of the Douglas plant at Santa Monica this morning.

Mr. Kinner, together with Dr. T. C. Young and Roy L. Kent, flew to Santa Monica this morning where they viewed the eight-passenger aerial limousine being built by the Douglas concern for the air line, inspected the Douglas plant and paid a visit to the Clover Field, when they invited aviators stationed there to participate in the mammoth aerial meet to be staged at the Glendale airport March 14 and 15.

The carrying of passengers between Los Angeles and San Francisco by airplane will be a new innovation on the western coast. It is planned to make daily trips between the two cities, it is said. The service will start as soon as the first plane is completed, according to officials of the Douglas concern.

The mammoth meet planned by local aviators for March 14 and 15 will be under the auspices of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce and will bring flyers from

Foreign Representatives Visit Industrial Belt

Consuls and vice-consuls of twenty-five of the leading nations of the globe visited the Glendale-Burbank industrial belt today in the interest of greater foreign trade out of Los Angeles harbor. Nine large industrial plants in the two cities were inspected by the foreign representatives who arrived shortly after 10 o'clock and remained until late afternoon.

Representatives of the Glendale and Burbank Chambers of Commerce, city officials and others accompanied the consuls through the industrial belt. The trip was under the auspices of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce with F. A. Sumpton of the Los Angeles First National bank in personal charge. General supervision of inspection tours made by the consuls to different industrial sections in the Southland during the past several weeks, is in the hands of A. B. Boswell, of the Los Angeles chamber who accompanied the party today.

The consuls first visited the Theme Hosiery Co. plant in the South Glendale district. F. H. Ranke, general manager and H. C. Pfeiffer, plant superintendent, conducted the inspection of the factory. From the Theme plant the party went to the J. T. Edwards studios on San Fernando road where the famous map maker exhibited his latest endeavor, the butterfly map of the world, that will be on display at Philadelphia all during 1926.

At noon the consuls and their hosts dined at the Moreland Motor Truck factory at Burbank. Here they were the special guests of W. R. Forker, general manager. From the truck plant the party went to the Empire china plant at Burbank, where W. A. Dalley was

Find Bodies Of Two Tots Under Weeds

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 4.—The bodies of two children believed to be those of the two Martin sisters, who disappeared several months ago, were found buried today by a man, beneath a pile of weeds in Exposition park. Because of advanced decomposition, it was impossible to determine the sex of the children, but it was thought they were probably 8 and 12 years old. They also appeared to have been placed in a kind of sack, according to the police.

Ten New Cases In Past Five Days; Musher Describes Trip In Blizzard

By HARRY PHILLIPS
For International News Service.
NOME, Alaska, Feb. 4.—Nome's diphtheria epidemic continued unabated today. Dr. Curtis Welch's official statement showed twenty-nine cases. There were thirty-one suspects and more than 100 contacts. There have been ten new cases in the last five days.

Dr. Welch is going ahead using the anti-toxin rushed here by dog-team relays over nearly 700 miles of icy tundra with the presumption that its freezing en route has not harmed it. He said he believed freezing had not taken away its force and that with the 300,000 units received Monday and the additional supplies on the way he would be able to make progress in the fight against the plague.

Thompson, Chicago and St. Louis millionaire contractor, who were found guilty of conspiracy to defraud the government by a federal jury last Friday, were today each sentenced to two years' imprisonment in Leavenworth penitentiary. This is the maximum sentence under the law. Both men were also fined $10,000 each.

French Flyers Beat Non-Stop Flight Record

DAKAR, French West Africa, Feb. 4.—The French captain, Aarchard and Lemaitre, bettered the world's non-stop airplane record when they landed here this afternoon. They hopped off from Etampes air field, near Paris, yesterday morning. The distance is 2,600 miles. The official flying time of the French flyers was 24 hours and 51 minutes. Aarchard and Lemaitre set out to lower the record held by the American Army Lieutenants Kelly and Macready.

United States Army Lieutenants Kelly and Macready made a non-stop flight from Roosevelt field, Mineola, N. Y., to Rockwell field, San Diego, Cal., May 2-3. The distance is 2,520 miles. Their time was 26 hours, 50 minutes, 38 2-5 seconds.

INSANITY CHARGE LAID TO GIRL, 7

Tot Who Confesses Crime Of Poisoning Sisters To Face Trial

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 4.—A complaint charging Alsa Thompson, 7-year-old girl, with insanity, was issued today. It was announced by the lunacy commission, and she will be tried tomorrow by Judge W. S. Gates. The complaint was sworn to by Mrs. Jessie Platt, who said the girl told her she had attempted to poison Mr. and Mrs. Platt and their children.

The little girl was taken into custody two days ago and frankly admitted, the police say, that she not only made the attempt on the Platts but two years ago ended the lives of her two baby sisters as well as a woman by administering poison to them.

Officials investigating the strange case said today they were seriously considering examining the bodies of the two little sisters and the woman whom the Thompson girl admits she poisoned, in an effort to prove or disprove the girl's amazing admissions.

FARM RELIEF MEASURE IS ANALYZED

President's Commission Has Formulated Definite Plan of Action

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Special Correspondent to The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Agricultural relief upon which Congress has expressed itself so often and in so many varying formulas has been analyzed at last by the president's agricultural commission in a manner satisfactory to most of the leaders from farm states.

"The prompt action on the part of the commission," Senator Capper, chairman of the farm bloc said today, "removes the farm problem as a moot cause for an extra session of Congress. Time is yet ample this session, if there is a legislative willingness to write all the enactments necessary to put the suggested program into effect."

"The program gives major emphasis to marketing. As the president earlier had said, the problem of the farm is not on the farm but in the market. The commission's report specifically recommends means to link up existing co-operative marketing associations of producers into effective and smooth working co-ordination that will bring them into line with the paraphernalia of orderly distribution in other industries."

Under the solution proposed, the general features of the Capper plan are:

Restraining Order Is Denied on Assessments

A temporary restraining order has been refused R. Belcher and other property owners who seek to halt assessment proceedings on Sycamore Canyon road. Judge Hartley Shaw of Glendale, sitting this morning in department 25 of the Los Angeles superior court, heard the arguments of Ray L. Morrow, city attorney, representing the city of Glendale, and John Everson, a Glendale attorney, representing the plaintiffs. He set Wednesday, February 11, as the date of a hearing to determine whether the court shall allow the plaintiffs an injunction pendente lite, or pending litigation.

The temporary restraining order against the city was sought by Mr. Belcher as head of a group of residents who protest against the levying of an assessment for the paving of Sycamore Canyon road. The protestors claimed the assessment was illegal.

Judge Shaw also heard the case of Edgar F. Hughes against the Glendale police court in department 25 of the superior court this morning. The plaintiff, who was represented by Attorney Ben S. Beery, protested that his arrest in the fall of 1924, on a speeding charge, was illegal because the ticket did not clearly indicate the rate of speed at which he was traveling. Leslie R. Tarr, Glendale city prosecutor, represented the local police court. Judge Shaw took the case under advisement.

The Automobile club of Southern California is watching this case carefully, according to Mr. Tarr, for its outcome will establish an important precedent. Should the city of Glendale win its case, the present method of tagging speeders will continue in force, he states.

Hughes gain his point, the entire existing system may have to be changed, not only in Glendale but elsewhere.

TROJANS WORRIED OVER COACH DEAL

NEWLY-SIGNED GRID MENTOR STILL UNDER CONTRACT TO TRINITY CHURCH

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 4.—With Howard Jones, famous football coach, who, it was announced yesterday, will fill the vacancy at University of Southern California as head football coach, already in Los Angeles, speculation was rife today whether or not he will be able to secure a release from a contract he has with Trinity college at Durham, N. C.

Today Jones had sent a telegram to the college officials requesting that he be relieved of coaching baseball there this spring. Jones expressed the opinion that his request would be granted and the way cleared for him to start his work here in the near future.

Three-Year Contract
Jones will fill the opening left by Elmer (Gloomy Gus) Henderson, resigned. Jones' contract with the North Carolina school is said to be a one-year affair, while his contract with U. S. C. will run for three years. Just what figure was set in the contract here was not revealed, but it was said to be a very reasonable one as Jones was desirous of coming to the west coast for personal reasons. Jones is a former coach at University of Iowa.

SLIDE BLOCKS PASSAGE AS RESCUE IS HALTED

Imprisoned Man Too Weak to Crawl to Safety When Heavy Rock Shifts

CAVE CITY, Ky., Feb. 4.—Floyd Collins, cave explorer, who has been imprisoned in the entrance of a cave since early Friday morning, was freed from the boulder holding his foot this morning, but a slide in the opening between him and the rescuers will stay his complete rescue for several hours.

The slide came while Collins was alone and none of the rescuers were caught behind the rock.

Rescuers were unable to determine whether Collins' foot was crushed so that amputation would be necessary, but it was stated that he was in good physical condition and unless complications set in he might be able to retain the use of the foot held under the rock.

The information was given the rescuers by Collins that his feet were free, but that he was too weak to force his way to the mouth of the cave.

Sand Cave was under military control ordered by Governor W. J. Fields.

Workers Handicapped

Shortly after daylight when rescuers had left him, Collins called to them that the boulder had slipped to one side and he was free, but too weak to crawl out. Before help could arrive a slide of loose rock closed the passage way between the man and his rescuers, and he was a prisoner again.

Work is being done to remove the barrier, but it is slow and tedious. Only one man can work at the digging and he passes the shale by hand to others stationed along the passage way.

Collins' foot has not been crushed but merely held wedged in a small crevice under the huge boulder, it was stated. He is able to talk to his rescuers through the wall of rock that held him prisoner, and the electric light wire that supplies him with light has not been severed.

House Objects to One Provision In Navy Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—House conferees have agreed to all provisions of the naval appropriation bill, carrying approximately $296,000,000 for the next fiscal year with the exception of one technical point. An amendment "authorizing and directing" the president to call another disarmament conference is the one issue yet to be ironed out. House members claim the word "authorizing" should be stricken out, as the president has ample authority under existing law.

DOG SHOW DATE SET FOR FEB. 14

Committee to Select Site
Within Few Days; Many Animals Entered

The annual bench show of the associated English bull, French bull and cocker spaniel dog clubs will take place in Glendale, at a location yet to be determined on, Saturday, February 14. The dog show which will bring to Glendale many of the best animals of these three breeds in the southwest will be only a forerunner of a larger and greater show to be staged later at which there will be upwards of 1,000 entries. With this preliminary show being staged here, the larger exhibition of pedigreed animals will be assured for Glendale also.

The bench show will be brought to Glendale through the Chamber of Commerce. A committee headed by Dan Kelly and including Dr. T. C. Young, Lyman P. Clark and Allen Fairchild, will determine on a location for the show within the next few days. Definite announcement that the show would be staged in this city was given at the meeting of the board of directors of the chamber last night when Mr. Fairchild reported that a number of suitable sites would be available here and urged that in view of securing the larger show later, every effort should be made to entertain the clubs now.

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

It is with regret the readers of The Glendale Evening News last night learned that the "singing Mayor of Glendale," Spencer Robinson, will not be a candidate for re-election to the City Council.

For if the individual be named who has given Glendale more publicity than any one man through personal efforts, it would be none other than Mayor Robinson. His talent as a singer, his jovial personality and his ability to keep calm in the face of criticism of the administration won, at least, the respect of the public.

According to his announcement the Mayor and his family are going to go traipsing off to Europe. Between the honor of being Mayor of Glendale and a visit to the old country the writer agrees that the latter selection is the better.

Every person should earn a competence sufficient in a lifetime to travel a bit in later years, although it is pleasant to start seeing the world as early as possible.

The mere matter of making money is nothing compared to getting full enjoyment from one's short span of years on earth. John D. Rockefeller and Henry Ford can have their millions so long as we have the wherewithal to travel life's highways and byways, if you were to ask the question.

Young men and women who are going to travel should visit the Orient now. There is the theatre of coming epochal events. Japan and China and India have civilizations so old that a life-time could be spent in their study and little more than a beginning would have been made.

Those seeking fame and fortune should visit the Latin Americas, also. Australia still has its lure for the pioneer.

However, it is well for people to establish themselves in California or the Pacific coast first. The export business offers wide opportunity for the youth of today to earn his way toward future travel.

Opportunity exists in almost unlimited fields for foreign trade. Our schools on the Pacific coast should specialize in courses which would intrigue the mind and educate the youth for this useful endeavor.

And that's that.

EIGHT MORE NAMES ARE ADDED TO LIST

Residents of Glendale Continue to Express Choice for Councilmanic
Candidates Through The News

As the time for the municipal election in April draws nearer, when five councilmen for Glendale will be selected, the list of people's candidates continues to grow in The Glendale Evening News.

Eight names are added to the list today, while candidates named earlier received more heavy votes. The large number of vote coupons received daily by The Glendale Evening News indicates that residents of the city welcome the opportunity to express their individual choice for candidates for councilmanic positions.

A glance at the list shows a cross-section of Glendale, for among those mentioned by the people as possible candidates are prominent business men, retired merchants, women who are club leaders, and persons who have the interests of Glendale at heart.

Each day there appears in this newspaper a blank form on which Glendale residents are invited to write the names of citizens who they believe are fitted for service on the City Council. Five candidates are to be elected next April. When any person nominated receives fifty or more nominations, his or her picture and a brief biography will be published in The Glendale Evening News.

Five nominations is the limit any one person is permitted to make. Names of all persons nominated will be published.

The nomination blank appears on page two of today's Glendale Evening News. Make use of it at once and mail it to Nomination Editor, 139 South Brand, Glendale, California.

Following is the complete list of those who have been nominated thus far:

DR. JOHN WELLBORN, 1136 East Colorado.

HOSPITAL ELECTS OLD BOARD AGAIN

Research Institution Reports
Reduction of Debt;
Plan Addition

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Research hospital held Monday night at Hahn's auditorium, the entire board of directors was re-elected to office. Members of the board are: Harry E. Hall, president; A. L. Baird, secretary and treasurer; R. M. Brown, Roy Kent and Dr. T. C. Young.

Stockholders and proxies represented at the meeting totaled 496 shares. The annual report revealed that the indebtedness of the institution had been reduced to $15,000 and that a cash dividend for the year just closed, of 10 per cent had been paid the stockholders.

While architect's plans are complete for the building of a new addition to the hospital, it was decided to postpone temporarily at least, actual work of construction.

Stockholders expressed themselves as well pleased with the progress that the institution had made during the past year and extended a vote of appreciation to Miss Laura Hunt, superintendent and Miss Bessie Mock, business manager.

Toy Symphony Feature Is Promised at 'Sing'

The toy symphony orchestra, which occasioned so much amusement at a previous gathering, will be featured again tomorrow evening, when the fifth Community Sing of the season will be held in the Harvard High school auditorium at 8 o'clock. Members of the audience will join for this number, with J. Arthur Myers in charge of the toy symphony charts. There will be a whistling solo by Mrs. Eva Jenkins and vocal selections by Miss Marie Oliver. Mrs. Gertrude Erb will accompany. H. S. Robinson's singing charts will be used. The public is invited to the sing by Glendale Community Service.

MINIMIZE FROST DAMAGE

REDLANDS, Feb. 4.—Tests made of citrus fruit being shipped from this section show that frost damage was not so great as thought the first of the year following the Christmas freeze. Much fruit of first quality is being made ready for market and none will be permitted to leave that is considered the least bit bad, it is stated.

FAMILY UNDER ARREST

SAN BERNARDINO, Feb. 4.—With the arrest of Mr. and Mrs. John Pennema and daughter, aged sixteen, here last week police now are having victims of recent robberies identify thousands of dollars' worth of stolen property alleged to have been taken by the prisoners. Most of the thefts, according to officers, occurred in Highland.

"WINGS OF THE MORNING"

RIVERSIDE, Feb. 4.—Working girls, who haven't time for recreation during the day, are being invited to join "Wings of the Morning" riding school being organized by a local equestrienne. The benefactress promises to star them in an exhibition at the fair grounds when they become proficient, it is reported.

STORES MUST KEEP CLEAN

SANTA BARBARA, Feb. 4.—The City Council has before it for consideration a "pure food" ordinance which will make grocers, butchers, bakers and others engaged in purveying edibles amenable to severe penalties if they do not keep their establishments in a clean and sanitary manner, according to Dr. W. H. Eaton, city health officer.

CHANEY TAKES RESTS

SAN JACINTO, Feb. 4.—Lon Chaney, whose latest starring vehicle in the films is entitled, "He Who Gets Slapped," was a guest of the past week at the hot springs near here and it is rumored he found out what it means "to get slapped" by an energetic masseur.

GAS WELL AT VENTURA

VENTURA, Feb. 4.—The Associated Oil company has brought in a "gasser" in the Ventura field averaging four million cubic feet daily, enough to twice supply the needs of a city the size of Santa Barbara, which city the field serves, among other coast communities.

SOLOIN IS INJURED

GOLETA, Feb. 4.—Dr. Edgar O. Campbell, physician member of the California legislature, is the first reported injured since the session began last month. His car was demolished when it skidded on the highway south of San Jose while the assemblyman was en route to his home here. Outside of severe lacerations, the doctor was uninjured.

Montrose Dog Fancier Has Pointer In Show

George L. Rollins of 653 Glendale avenue, Montrose, has entered his registered pointer "Rascal" in the meet to be held at Bakersfield, February 9, 10 and 11, by the Southern California Field Trials' association, of which Dr. J. C. Negley of Montrose is president. Mr. Rollins will meet other dog fanciers on Sunday at the Southern hotel, Bakersfield, where lots will be drawn for places in the trials. Over thirty dogs are entered, including Irish setters, English setters and pointers.

Charcoal Blaze Brings Out Fire Apparatus

A carload of charcoal igniting by spontaneous combustion brought apparatus from station No. 1 of the Glendale fire department to the feed and fuel yard of Sawyer Brothers Co., 512-14 North San Fernando road, at 6:45 o'clock this morning. The car was on a siding, two-thirds unloaded, reports Chief A. H. Lankford, in charge. The fire was extinguished at a damage to car and contents estimated at $200.

C. C. Sawyer of the company reports that fire broke out in the warehouse last night, among the sacks of charcoal that had been unloaded from the car. His men were able to haul out the smoldering sacks without aid from the fire department. The shipment came from the east, he said. Charcoal frequently ignites from spontaneous combustion, according to Mr. Sawyer.

Paavo Nurmi and Ray May Run Mile Again

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—The first faint echo of a demand for a return meeting between Paavo Nurmi and Joie Ray at one mile was heard today, following Ray's remarkable effort in winning the special mile at the Western Union games last night in 4:13 4-5. His effort, which fell short of Nurmi's world record by only one-fifth of a second, took precedence of the Finn's inevitable new record as the sensation of the evening. Paavo beat Willie Ritola's time for 2 1-4 miles by nearly 14 seconds, being clocked in 10:19, but it was Ray's running that caught the fancy of the crowd.

The American champion was at the top of his form and rushed through the final lap like a whirlwind to the fastest time he has ever made.

Mandell and Terris Battle Friday Night

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—With the naming of sixteen American candidates for Benny Leonard's vacated lightweight title by the state athletic commission, interest today rose to fever heat in the impending meeting on Friday between Sid Terris, "the dancing fool," and Sammy Mandell, so-called "sheik" of Rockford. Terris and Mandell are regarded as the headliners of the list, the pair that ultimately will survive the international tournament.

Choral Club, Symphony To Join for Concert

The Glendale Choral club and the Community Symphony orchestra will appear in a program at the Glendale avenue school Monday night, February 16, where "Paul Revere's Ride" by A. J. Gantvoort will be rendered. Mr. Gantvoort is a resident of Los Angeles and will be the guest of the choral club and orchestra at the presentation of his work.

Suits Filed to Enjoin City In Sycamore Issue

A number of affidavits in the suit being brought by R. Belcher and other property owners against the city of Glendale, to enjoin it from proceeding with collection of Sycamore Canyon road street assessments, were filed this morning in the Los Angeles superior court by Mr. Belcher.

Houses of wooden framework entirely covered with steel plates and containing four rooms and bath, may be rented at $50 a year, say contractors of Clydesdale, England.

GLENDALEANS TO ATTEND PAGEANT

Mission Play to Be Scene Of Gathering Tonight; Plan Special Party

Five hundred Glendale people will go to San Gabriel tonight to witness the performances of the California Mission Play, now commencing its 1925 season at the old Mission playhouse in that city. Nearly a dozen civic organizations, among them the Chamber of Commerce, Glendale Realty board, service clubs and others will attend the performance. In bodies, large motor parties in many instances planning to leave Glendale and make the trip together.

Tonight will be annual Glendale tonight at the Mission Play. John Steven McGroarty, author of the drama of early California days, has ever claimed this city as his home. "I live in the green Verdugo Hills back of Glendale," he has always maintained. Tonight Glendale will turn out to honor with fitting tribute the noted California writer and fellow townsman.

Five hundred seats in the center of the playhouse have been reserved for Glendaleans. Word was given out at Chamber of Commerce headquarters this afternoon that tickets will be available up until curtain time tonight. Reduced rates to all attending the performance from Glendale will be available.

Service Club Parties

More than 100 members of the Glendale Kiwanis club and their wives will assemble at 222 East Broadway at 7 o'clock and will make the trip by motor car. George Lyons, Dr. T. C. Young and Peter Diederich compose the Kiwanis committee in charge of the party. Nearly half a hundred Lions and Lionesses will join the Kiwanians and others at the Mission playhouse. The Glendale Realty board will send a large delegation as will all other service organizations.

Besides those making the trip to the Mission Play with one of the dozen parties already planned, many will attend individually. Those making the journey to San Gabriel were urged today to take the following route: Colorado street into Pasadena and as far as El Molino avenue; south to Mission road, following the arrows to San Gabriel.

Representatives of Mr. McGroarty said they expected him to appear in person at the performance tonight. If he does he will extend greetings in a short address to the Glendaleans. Mayor Spencer Robinson and members of the City Council have been issued a special invitation to attend the performance tonight.

Another Glendale day at the Mission Play will be held on Saturday of this week. Thousands of Glendale school children are to attend the matinee and night productions on that date. All other Glendaleans who are not able to attend the performance tonight will be entitled to the same reduced rates on Saturday.

Lake District Called To School Bond Meet

School patrons of the Lake district are called to a meeting at 7 o'clock Saturday night at the home of H. Emens of 627 Allen street, corner of Allen and Flower streets, to discuss the school bond election. A speaker will be heard. Parents of the Lake district are planning to organize a Parent-Teacher association.

Mail Campaign To Put Friends Right In East

A letter-posting campaign by residents of Glendale to their friends and relatives in the east, to be conducted in conjunction with other movements throughout the state to counteract ill effects of unfavorable publicity given California, will be undertaken by the Glendale Chamber of Commerce. Tentative plans call for a mail box erected in a centralized location and invite everyone to mail as many letters as desired, "setting friends back east right" on a number of important points. All these letters will be mailed at the same time. President D. H. Smith and Secretary Howard I. Wood of the Chamber of Commerce will confer on the appointment of a letter-mailing committee today.

KIWANIAN GIVES MEETING REPORT

A. L. Baird, district trustee for the Glendale Kiwanis club, returned Monday from Fresno, where he attended the California Nevada district convention of district trustees, held in that city last Saturday. Out of a total of sixty clubs within the district, fifty-seven were represented at the convention. Governor Abe Leech presided and gave a wonderful demonstration of what a really good governor he is proving to be, said Mr. Baird. The time was principally occupied by consideration of the duties of district trustees and as to the manner in which they could best serve their respective clubs. In line with that purpose, Franklin M. Keene, past district field representative, delivered a stirring address, in which he pointed out the great latent power within Kiwanis en masse for the upbuilding and upholding of Kiwanian ideals everywhere.

And, in connection with that thought, he showed how each club dovetails with its sister clubs in their various activities, and that it is through the district trustee that such contacts are made. In short, he said, the district trustee has supervision over his club and is the outside contact for state and international offices of Kiwanis. Two conventions are held each year, and the next meeting will be held at Reno, Nev., during the month of August.

Prominent Kiwanians present at the convention were: Leslie Henry, past governor, and at present international trustee; past Governor "Bill" Brown and past Governor Heber Winder.

It was announced that a special train had been chartered over the Santa Fe for Californians wishing to attend the international convention to be held at St. Paul next June. This train will pass through Glendale and the route decided upon to St. Paul via the Grand canyon and Kansas City.

Turks Decide Hearses Necessary to Funeral

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 4.—Moslem funerals will be speeded up by the use of hearses, the prefecture decided today. The custom has been to carry coffins through the streets on the shoulders of four men.

BUDGET CALLS FOR $15,650 AT C. OF C.

Chamber Approves Amount As Expenditures for Current Year

A budget calling for the expenditure of $15,650 by the Glendale Chamber of Commerce during 1925, was okayed by the board of directors at their meeting at chamber headquarters last night. The budget includes the following items: Secretary's salary, $4800; office salaries, $4000; rent, $1,800; office, $500; printing, $500; postage, telephone and telegraph, $850; depreciation on furniture, equipment and automobile, $850; entertainment and meals, $350; heat, light and janitor service, $350; automobile expenses, $900; traveling expenses, $150; insurance and taxes, $100; legal and auditing expense, $150; miscellaneous, $250. No allowance was made in the budget for donations by the chamber.

In voting the adoption of the budget it was agreed that the figures set forth should be adhered to strictly and should not be exceeded in any instance excepting with the consent of at least eight members of the board. It was pointed out that to realize the amount called for in the budget, the present membership of the chamber must be increased. Members of the budget committee which prepared the list were George H. Bentley, chairman; Dan Kelly, and C. D. Lusby. The budget as proposed for this year is less than the expenditures of the chamber during 1924.

A committee consisting of Directors Kelly, Charles W. Ingle and Dr. T. C. Young was appointed last night to consider the matter of buying a new office automobile for the Chamber of Commerce.

Industrial Survey
Glendale's industrial survey will be officially launched within a few days, it was announced last night by Secretary Howard I. Wood. M. N. Alderman, statistician who will conduct the survey, will arrive in this city from San Bernardino, where he has been completing a similar document, sometime before next Monday it is anticipated. Much preliminary work has already been done by the Chamber of Commerce office force. A large sign pointing the way to the entrance to the Chamber of Commerce offices will be erected in front of the building at 150 South Brand boulevard. Many tourists have been unable to locate the chamber because of the absence of such a directing sign in the past, it was pointed out.

President D. H. Smith will suggest one Glendale member to the advisory board of the California Development association. Active work in this part of the state will soon be undertaken by the organization, and it is probable that a Glendale man will sit on the advisory board.

Appeal to Solons
The board of directors authorized Secretary Wood to address telegrams and communications to state senators serving on the Senate finance committee, urging them to vote favorably on a bill to establish a forestry experimental station in California. This action is in line with the chamber's efforts in behalf of greater reforestation activity throughout the state.

In a communication to the Glendale chamber the city of San

TELLS CONDITIONS IN TURKEY TODAY

W. B. Kirk Receives Letter From Smyrna Rug Manufacturer Whom He Met On His Recent Tour of Europe

Conditions in Turkey at the present time are explained in a letter recently received by W. B. Kirk from C. J. Giraud, a rug manufacturer of Smyrna, whom Mr. Kirk met on his tour of Europe. Readers of The Glendale Evening News enjoyed the travel letters Mr. Kirk sent while abroad. Mr. Kirk, in sending Mr. Giraud's letter, makes the following explanation:

"On our travels in the Near East, we met a very fine man of about my age, of French and Dutch extraction who was born in Smyrna and who is a large rug manufacturer there now. He gave me some very illuminating ideas regarding existing political conditions in that section. 'I have just received a letter from him which is so interesting and which so clearly sets forth conditions of life in the Asia Minor section of Turkey, that I have decided to send it to you for publication in order that others may share it.'"

"The reader will readily see that Mr. Giraud entertains an entirely different feeling toward the Turk from that which is held by most of us. In fact, I could see from his conversation that he holds the Turk in high esteem and regards the Turks as a maligned nation. He expressed to me the opinion that in no country was life and property of foreign residents held more sacred or better protected than it is by the Turks. I heard this same opinion expressed by other foreign residents of Turkey during the war. This only goes to show that there are usually two sides to every question."

Letter from Turkey
"Following is the letter: 'Dear Mr. Kirk:—It was indeed kind of you to think of me but I can not tell you how sorry I was to hear of the death of Mrs. Kirk. A strange coincidence, but I had only just been talking of her to a good friend of mine referring to the nice people one meets when travelling. Mrs. Kirk's quiet charm and refinement had very much impressed me and I can quite conceive what a void her loss must mean in your circle. Well, one must incline to the dictate of Providence and I can only beg of you to accept all my sympathy and condolence in your sad bereavement.'"

"Am glad to hear you are studying French with your daughter and feel sure the effort will repay you in your future travels in Europe. A knowledge of French will take you anywhere through our part of the world and as you progress am sure you will find a great deal in French literature, besides it would make a stay in France ever so much more interesting. I have always thought that the many thousands of American and English residents in France have had the pleasure through an insufficient acquaintance with the language. France and Italy are most beautiful countries with wonderful art traditions, etc., but one misses everything through imperfect knowledge of at least one of the Latin tongues."

How is it guarded?
"As regards news of our life in Turkey, am pleased to tell you that my wife returned two months back with my two sons, the eldest just having completed his French military service of eighteen months and the youngest from Cambridge university and we are now all installed in our home which has been closed since the burning of Smyrna two and a half years ago."

"My wife has had to bring three French servants with her for household work as Turkish women cannot stay in Christian homes, and the outside work (marketing and guarding) is in the hands of three stalwart Turks armed to the teeth who are prepared to kill or destroy any infidel or Moslem who may approach to disturb our peace. 'Life in fact has completely changed with the setting aside of the capitulations and we are all now literally in the wilds of Turkey, dependent on the honor and good faith of the Turk for individual independence and sanctity of human life. Needless to say that, cut off entirely from the west and European civilization and so long as the holy Christian powers (England, France, Italy, etc.) do not covet this territory we are enjoying a most peaceful life and sense of security which never existed before. I say before the great war because notwithstanding the capitulations and full security in Smyrna as a city, nevertheless so soon as we emerged from towns and went about the country we were always exposed to brigands of Greek origin."

No Brigands Now
"Now no brigands exist and we can roam about everywhere and feel quite safe. Of course we are subject to Moslem laws as applied to Turks, but as laws hardly exist and are rarely applied there is a delightful charm in feeling that there is no government and that we are all free men, unworried and with no taxes to pay. It is a patriarchal form of life as probably existed two or three thousand years ago and some few hundred Europeans that are to be found here piously hope that this state of things may continue."

I have brought out a sixty-five ton Ketchik (boat) from England so as to have access to the outer world but so long as the

PLAN TEMPLE OF MUSIC FOR CITY

President of Club Outlines Plans at Celebration Held Last Night

"May this be the lighting of the vision of a beautiful temple of music in Glendale, the finest and fastest growing city in the world," said Mrs. Mattison Boyd Jones, founder and president of the Glendale Music club, as she lighted the four candles on a cleverly made miniature temple, the birthday cake, a feature of the "Founders' Night" celebration last night at the Tuesday Afternoon club.

First announcement of the club's ambition to build a temple of music was made in the New Year's edition of The Glendale Evening News. Last night members and friends of the club marking the fourth birthday of the club, heard Mrs. Jones, in her inspiring enthusiasm, predict that ere another four years passed Glendale would have a temple of music, built through the efforts of the Glendale Music club.

Outlines Plans
The birthday cake, which is to be exhibited in a local business house, is in the form of a temple. Before lighting the candles last night Mrs. Jones said of the temple:

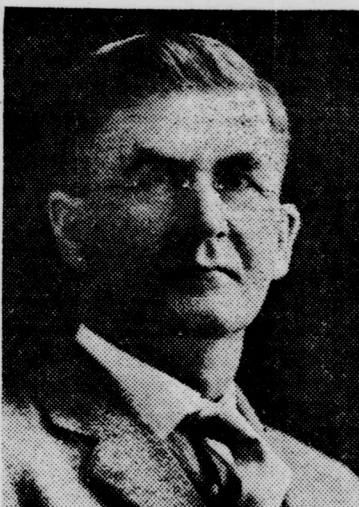

"The features it would have would be an auditorium with stage large enough to seat a chorus of 1000 voices; a pipe organ; recital halls and studios. 'The golden dome will represent the money we will need to erect it and the American flag you see flying from the dome stands for American musicians and American music, accorded a place on every program of the Glendale Music club.'"

Before lighting the candles on the cake, members of the official board of the club were introduced on the stage. There were Marguerite Chappell, president of the juvenile auxiliary; Jeanette Luc, president of the junior auxiliary; Miss Zeigler, director of the junior auxiliary; Miss Gertrude Cleophas, chairman of the artists' section; Mrs. Colin Cable, chairman of hospitality; Mrs. Harry Greenwalt, parliamentarian; Mrs.

(Turn to page 14, col. 1)

President

S. C. KINCH, who was chosen head of the Colorado Boulevard Improvement association at the meeting held last night.

S. C. Kinch was elected president of the Colorado Boulevard Improvement association, to succeed J. M. Boland, at a meeting held last night at the city hall. Other officers named for the ensuing year are: E. M. Gray, first vice-president; G. G. Neil, second vice-president; W. S. Kirk, secretary-treasurer; and the directorate chosen comprises these men, with the addition of C. C. Cooper, Fred S. Dixon and R. Belcher.

The following committees were appointed: Bylaws, R. Belcher, W. S. Kirk, E. M. Gray; bridges, R. Belcher, M. Khodigian, John M. Hague; publicity, W. S. Kirk; sewers, Mrs. Grace Corbalay, Russell Graham, A. H. Buie. It was voted to hold regular meetings of the Colorado Boulevard Improvement association the first Tuesday night of each month.

Peter Diederich, superintendent of plant and production, reported on ornamental street lights, stating that it was inadvisable to start any light proceedings on Colorado boulevard until after the special school bond election of February 17, as such proceedings would have to be changed, in the event the bonds carry, to provide for payment by the Colorado school of its just proportion of the expense.

Ralph W. Meeker reported on the effort to obtain easements east of Glendale avenue, for installation of ornamental street lights, stating that this work was progressing very slowly and that great difficulty was being encountered by the committee engaged in this work.

CHAMBER WILL FIGHT RATES ON PHONES

Toll Charges for Northwest Section Is Contrary to Franchise, Is Claim

W. B. Kelly and the public service corporations committee of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, working in behalf of residents of the Grand View district and the Greater Northwest Improvement association, will seek to have the city force transfer of telephones in the northwest from the Burbank to the Glendale exchange in accordance with a recent recommendation by the chamber directors.

There will be no need of carrying the fight before the State Railroad commission, is the belief of Chairman Kelly. He told the chamber directors last night that the franchise granted the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co. by the city requires that no toll charge be made upon calls within the city limits. This is the point to which the Grand View residents most strongly object, that a toll is charged on all their Glendale calls, although they live within the incorporate limits of the city. Through this clause in the franchise, it is the belief of city officials, Mr. Kelly said, that the telephone can be forced at least to discontinue the toll charge, even though transfer of the phones to the Glendale exchange is not undertaken. If relief is not obtained, the public service corporations committee will proceed to lay the case before the State Railroad commission, he said.

Car Tracks Next
Director Fred Deal, manager of the phone company for this district, declared that it was more convenient to serve the Grand View section from the Burbank exchange and that although when the franchise was granted all the city had to be served without toll service, annexed territory such as the Grand View section is, was not included in the original agreement.

Chairman Kelly announced that as soon as the telephone controversy is disposed of, his committee will take up the matter of completing the lowering of the Pacific Electric street car tracks along the entire length of Brand boulevard.

Daily Greeting to News Readers

SOME MEN HAVE NO FAITH—

In anyone but a get-rich-quick promoter.
In religion, but they believe in horse shoes and four leaf clovers.
In themselves and still they wonder why it is hard to get employment.
In anyone who holds an opinion different from their own.
In others because they know themselves so well.

NEWSPAPER READING ESSENTIAL

There is no culture or education worth the name that does not include a knowledge and an interest in present-day events. History from the beginning of the human race up to the present time is interesting, even fascinating, and should be read to give one a foundation and a background for the study of current happenings. But we should not stop with the dusty tomes of yesterday. The newspaper, which contains the history of today, should not be neglected if we are to round out our learning and culture and our training for citizenship.

The late Senator Lodge, noted for his erudition as well as his statesmanship, was often very uncomplimentary to newspaper writers and newspaper English. He said that most of our great journals are filled with a strange jargon found nowhere else, spoken by no one and never used in daily life; "compounded in about equal parts of turgid fine writing, vulgar jauntiness and indiscriminate slang." But Senator Lodge made allowance for the men who "write for the day that is passing over them," and says it would be absurd as well as unjust to expect them to write like Sterne or Hawthorne.

But if newspapers are hurriedly written they are also hurriedly read, which is perfectly understandable in this age, when so many things make demands upon our attention. If Senator Lodge was harsh in criticism of newspaper English he had a very clear perception of the value of the newspaper as a means of disseminating knowledge. We cannot ignore the facts presented in the daily newspaper if we wish to appear to be well-informed.

FARM PROBLEMS

Speaking of the agricultural situation, Secretary of Commerce Hoover made the statement that there are 15,000,000 more mouths requiring food in this country every ten years. While we are exporting a quarter of our wheat crop, we are importing other foods which we could grow for ourselves, and if some of the wheat acreage could be devoted to other crops the result would be better.

Contrary to the belief of some farm authorities who think distribution is the principal problem of the farmer today, Secretary Hoover says the road to farm prosperity lies in the direction of more intensive cultivation, the growing of more food per acre and per man, because potential consumption is increasing faster than the cultivated area of the country.

The trouble with agriculture is that it cannot be systematized. The ideal condition would be for someone all-wise and all-powerful to classify the lands of the country and say what should be grown on each acre. If only those farms that get a yield well above the cost line would grow wheat and all others be prohibited, wheat would show a profit and there would not be more produced than the market could absorb and a large acreage would thus be diverted to other products. But this, of course, is an ideal condition that cannot even be nearly approached.

FINE CITIZEN

The retirement of J. C. Sherer from the office of city treasurer of Glendale will mark an epoch in the history of the city. We doubt if there is anyone now living here who has been a resident of Glendale longer than Mr. Sherer. His activity in community affairs has encompassed a period of time during which Glendale grew from a settlement of a dozen families to a city of 55,000 population. He has been one of the links that joined the old Glendale with the new.

The present owner of The Glendale Evening News purchased the paper of Mr. Sherer twelve years ago. During that transaction and all through the ensuing years during which Mr. Sherer has served as city clerk and city treasurer of Glendale the editor of The News has learned to know and to appreciate the splendid quality of Mr. Sherer's citizenship and of his manhood.

As one who helped to blaze the trail for the Glendale of today, who established Glendale's newspaper, who preserved for posterity the facts and events of Glendale's early days in his "History of Glendale," who in pioneer days helped to guarantee for Glendale our present splendid water supply, and who served in so many other ways, Mr. Sherer occupies in Glendale a position that is peculiarly his own. Glendale owes much to its fine citizen—John C. Sherer.

SUCCESS AND HAPPINESS

There is a great striving today both for success and happiness. Perhaps this is true of all times and all peoples, but we, in this generation, seem to be on the wrong track in our pursuit of these things. We are chasing ephemeral shadows without, instead of looking within ourselves for the real substance. We are following after the things that seem to typify success—wealth, fame and power—rather than success itself. We are chasing the things that seem to be happiness—idleness, money and the jazz spirit, which are but counterfeit joys.

Neither happiness nor success are tangible and cannot be measured by material standards. Both must come from within. Happiness has been defined, not as doing what one likes, but as liking what one does. Hawthorne says that when happiness is made the object of pursuit it is never attained. If we follow some other object we may find that we have caught happiness without dreaming of it. Likewise, success is not in achieving what is aimed at, but in aiming at what we ought to achieve. Look to the development of the inner faculties to know real happiness and success.

HASTY JUDGMENTS

It is very difficult to see our own times clearly and without prejudice. We can read history and get the proper perspective on the events of the past and read clearly the motives of men of long ago. But the men and issues of today are too close to us. It is so easy, at close range, to misjudge men and events. And still, knowing this, we rarely hesitate to express our opinions very forcibly. One reason why we form these hasty judgments is that we are unwilling to think. It is so much easier to jump at conclusions, or to accept what others have to say, and then refuse to listen to arguments that may cause us to change our opinions. We do not prize very highly our God-given right and ability to think things out for ourselves, and in reaching our hasty conclusions we are unfair to ourselves as well as to those whom we judge.

PROOF OF THE OLD SAYING!

The Ennobling Touch of Death

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Death is the ennobler. Its touch raises us to royal heights.

Human nature is instinctively kingling. There is something about every one of us that is divine and royal. We see too much of that which is commonplace and banal. It confuses our judgment and vitates our relations with people.

Love is given to us as a sort of divine liquor by which to idealize our fellows. When we are in love with a person we see all of their virtues written large and cannot see their vices.

A mother idealizes her child, and no matter what he does nor how low he may sink her love follows him and her care enfolds him.

But the greatest ennobler is death. A woman whose child was sick and whose demise was feared said: "To think how I scolded her for little things! If she gets well from this sickness I will never complain again of her littering the floor or dirtying the windows or soiling her frock. What do all these things amount to compared with the life of my child?"

Our irritation at the actions of those we love speedily passes away if we let ourselves think that we are soon to lose them. There is something in the finality of death that makes us overlook faults.

It is commonplace to say that there is nothing but flattery carved upon tombstones. There is nothing else to carve. All a man's sins and weaknesses are buried in forgotten graves. We only remember his good qualities.

Samuel Gompers during his life had many active enemies. He was opposed all along the line. Many people thought him wrong. It is significant that at his death all criticism was silent and all, including friends and enemies, united in speaking well of him.

This idea is apparent in the proverb, "Speak only good of the dead." We feel it unnecessary to attack one who is forever beyond our reach.

It was said of John M. Sillard that during his life he was known as a brisk, alert and somewhat abrupt man, but when he was faced with certain death he became gentle and a curious note of kindness entered into all his correspondence. He was feeling the ennobling influence of oncoming death.

Dr. Holmes says that the human being is sometimes like a pear which mellow and ripens as its career is closing. We have often noticed that some old people lose their asperity and grow kind and gentle as their end approaches.

William Allen White during Mr. Wilson's lifetime was a vigorous opponent of the President's policies, but after the President's death he wrote a very kindly biography of him.

It will help us all in our dealings with others if we keep in mind that they are mortal, that they live with us but a few days and after they are dead their shortcomings will not matter.

There is no one that has not some faults and there is no one that has not some good qualities. If we look for the latter we shall find them.

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNARD

Ancient thought found its form in a series of feudal civilizations resting upon a denial of man by the multitudes themselves, who sought cohesion in mutual fear of life, and out of culture of fear they created their tyrants. Their unsafe anchorage lay in the idea of force, in its convincing outward show of domination, splendor and glory.

But now the gravitation of world thought and dream is shifting. Out of the serial collapses of age-long feudalism is arising a new view of man.

This new view is crystallized in "The Autobiography of an Idea," by Louis H. Sullivan, famous architect who transformed the ungainly skyscraper into a thing of beauty as well as utility. It is a volume for the thinking man's library.

In the history of mankind there are recorded two great inversions, he observes. The first set forth by the Nazarene, to the effect that love is a greater power and more real than vengeance. The second, proclaimed the earth to be a sphere revolving around the sun. "These affirmations were made in the face of all evidence sacred to the contrary. Who could feel the earth revolving? Who could fail to see the sun rise and set? What but blood could satisfy, or an eye for an eye?"

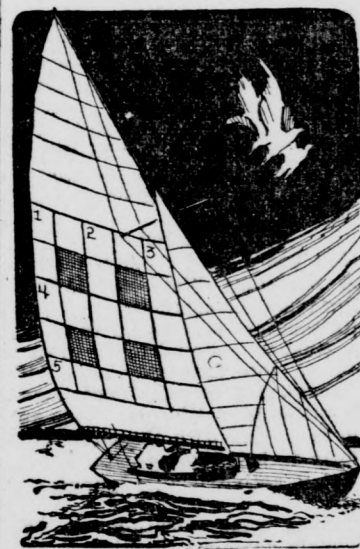

Now, in reactive consequence of age-long self-repression and self-enclosure the world of mankind is preparing its way for a Third Inversion, Sullivan foresees.

"The world of heart and head is becoming dimly sentient that man in his power is free spirit-Creator. The long dream of inert self is nearing its end. Emerging from the heritage of mystical self-consciousness and phantasy, the world of mankind is stirring. Man's deeds are about to become conscious deeds in the open. The beauty, the passion, the glory of the past shall merge into a new beauty, a new passion, a new glory as man approaches man, and recognizing him, rejoices in him and with him, as born to power . . .

"For man's powers in certitude approach the infinite. They are bewildering—amazing in diversity. They unfold their intimate complexity to our view as an equally amazing solidarity, as we hold, steadfast, to the realistic concept of man as free spirit—creator—even as the vast complexity in the outworking of the feudal thought simplifies into a basic concept of self-delusions and self-fear."

Man shall find his power in self-recognition. Such is Sullivan's conclusion.

CLAIMS SPEEDING ON ARDEN AVENUE

Glendalians Reports Children Face Grave Danger as Laws Disregarded

Editor The Evening News—May I draw your attention to the grave danger threatening children on Arden avenue and, I presume, in other residential streets?

During the course of the day a great many drivers, particularly of small cars, drive through Arden avenue at a speed of 30, 35, 40 miles an hour, and even faster. There are quite a number of little children living in homes on Arden avenue, particularly in the block between Brand boulevard and Central avenue.

The parents endeavor to keep them out of the street, but occasionally they will stray in the street, and with cars going through this street at forty miles an hour they have little chance of escape. Serious accidents are only a question of time. I have two boys, one two years old and the other three and one-half years old, and I am very anxious.

We have just gotten our dog out of the hospital, where he has been, with a broken leg, for a month. He was in the middle of the street. Before he could get out of the way a car, easily going 45 miles an hour, ran him down. He had absolutely no chance, nor would a child, under the same circumstances, because the car did not turn out, neither did it blow its horn.

I have never seen a policeman patrol Arden avenue, or any other residential street. There is nothing whatever to deter motorists from any speed they like on any residential street in Glendale. Is there nothing that can be done?

LEAGUE AGAIN IS BROUGHT TO NOTICE

Opium Conference Approves Policy of Freedom As Inducement

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, copyright, 1925

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The idea advanced recently by Colonel House that America become an associate member of the League of Nations participating in its conferences but agreeing to its commitments only on considering the merits of each convention or treaty has bobbed up anew with the plan approved by the American commissioners to the opium conference at Geneva.

Machinery had to be devised to secure the appointment of a body to supervise the control of narcotics and just as the jurists who were forming the world council turned to the council of the League of Nations so the delegates to the opium conference have done likewise but with one significant change, namely, that the appointing power be vested in the United States and the council of the league. This is an improvement based on the experience with the world protocol and may be in the end a means of amending the protocol itself so as to insure American participation.

Far from being regarded as an evasion by the United States of its responsibilities, there is beginning to be a realization abroad that the system of government in Washington which requires ratification by two-thirds of the Senate of all international agreements of a binding character makes it necessary to deal with the United States as a special case.

Geneva Delegates
The willingness of the Geneva delegates to the opium conference to recognize this is a sequel to the controversy of the last six years over American membership in the league of nations. Mr. Coolidge has followed President Harding in stating emphatically that the United States will not accept the present covenant of the league of nations. And the league hasn't modified its covenant to meet the objections of the Republican party now in power. Indeed, the changes are that amendment of the covenant in any particular is going to be a difficult process and that the same end may be achieved by having the United States as an informal associate of the league. It is the influence of the United States in world councils rather than any specific treaty relationship which is mostly desired by the league, though many Americans who favor the league hope informal participation will ultimately mean full-fledged membership by the United States.

The practical question, however, is how to bring American influence to bear under the circumstances that exist today. The United States government has in recent months shown a disposition to relate itself to league problems, sending ambassadors and ministers to sit in conferences called by the league and already President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes have agreed to accept a league invitation to sit in a conference to consider reduction in armament.

Co-operation Idea
All during the war the European powers consented to the use of the phrase "the allied and associated powers" with the knowledge that the United States was an "associate." Something of the sort has been devised by the opium conference to insure American co-operation.

Some of the Geneva dispatches would seem to indicate that the new plan might be the formula for all contacts between the league and the United States but opinion here in official quarters does not agree with such a view. Rather it is believed that each case will stand on its own bottom and that the formula used with respect to the opium board may be applied in other international actions involving the United States, each convention will have to run the gauntlet of senatorial examination.

There is no provision in the league covenant for "associate" members and the United States would have to submit to the Senate any proposal to become an "associate" member of any international body which would probably renew the controversy that started in 1919 over the Versailles covenant.

Policy of Freedom
What is more likely to happen and what will help America participate in league activities is a continuation of the freedom of choice which the United States now exercises with league activities, participating in those which it feels are useful to America and which permit each obligation to be examined by the Senate and the executive before being undertaken. The more America participates, however, in what is going on in Geneva the stronger will the prestige of the league of nations become. Originally that body was conceived as a clearing house for international thought and action, a continuous conference of nations, a place where international co-operation on any given subject could be initiated.

America has already made use of the machinery at Geneva and the friends of international co-operation abroad are glad of the friendly rather than hostile attitude now being exhibited by Washington even though a rigid and formal membership may be for the present out of the question.

RECOMMEND PERMIT FOR ATWATER LODGE

Masons of District To Meet On Friday Night to Complete Final Plans For Organization of Club

A permit for the establishment of an Atwater Masonic lodge has been recommended by inspectors of the Southern California district, according to word received by P. E. Lipscomb and others interested with the formation of the lodge today.

Organization of the new Masonic body will be furthered at a meeting of all Atwater Masons at the Arthur M. Gilman Real Estate office on Glendale boulevard Friday night of this week.

The action of the inspectors recommending a dispensation for the Atwater lodge follows a conference between temporary officers of the Atwater Masons with high officials of the order at the Alexandria hotel, Los Angeles, last Monday at noon. A number of additional applications for membership have been received so that a large charter list is assured, Mr. Lipscomb said.

Invitation Extended

The Glendale Chamber of Commerce pledged itself to a program of co-operation with the Atwater Park district and the Atwater Community Improvement association when an invitation to officers of the chamber to speak at future meetings of the association was extended through Secretary Howard I. Wood at the meeting of the board of directors last night. A report was given on the appearance of L. T. Rowley, before members of the Improvement body Monday night when he talked on additional bridge facilities. Officers and directors said they stood willing to co-operate with the Atwater Park residents in any projects which might be taken up and heartily accepted the invitation to attend meetings of the association.

Russian Aristocrats Flunkies to Red Army

MOSCOW, Feb. 4.—Soviet Russia has no secret of the fact that the Red army is a "class" army. That is, it consists entirely of men from the ranks of the proletariat. Members of the so-called "bourgeoisie" and of the old aristocracy are excluded as officers or soldiers from the army.

The services of such men, however, are not permitted to go wholly unused. It has been decreed that they shall serve in what the Bolshevik term "auxiliary labor corps" in the army. This means they must serve the real Red Army soldiers. They keep the barracks clean, attend the horses, repair roads, supervise army messes and do other menial tasks, which are considered beneath the "dignity" of a Bolshevik soldier.

Ireland Ships Flax to Ford for Experiment

BELFAST, Ireland, Feb. 4.—A huge consignment of flax-scutching and dressing machinery has been shipped from Belfast to Detroit where it will be used for the treatment of flax grown in Henry Ford's new 10,000-acre flax plot. After treatment, the flax will be used for making hood-covers for the Ford automobiles. Flax is now being substituted for cotton by Ford, the growing of which represents a great new Ford industry.

EPISCOPAL SESSION

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 4.—The seventy-fifth annual diocesan convention of the Episcopal church opened here. Bishop Edward Lamb Parsons of the diocese of California, rendered the main address of the day, advocating greater interest and participation by church members and by the church itself in world problems.

TOPCOAT STYLE

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Topcoats now are more tailored than ever, and more mannish. Many of the newest examples have velvet collars with notched lapels closely patterned from the male overcoat. Even the hand of fur about the bottom which persisted for a time, is becoming passé.

CATTLE SALES

FORT WORTH, Feb. 4.—Cattle sales in west Texas are active. Kansas feeders last week paid $50,550 for 850 steers in Schleicher county, to be delivered May 1. Seven hundred coming 3-year-olds are being sold at Eldorado at $60 a head and coming 2-year-olds are bringing $45.

NEW ELECTRIC PLANT

DANVILLE, Va., Feb. 4.—The Southern Virginia Power corporation is said to be preparing to build at once, at Eggleston Falls, a $350,000 hydro-electric plant. The Abuson Construction Co. of New York is understood to be backing the project.

COTTON RECEIPTS

CALEXICO, Cal., Feb. 4.—American cotton growers in Lower California will receive approximately $35,000,000 for their 1924 crop, 64,200 bales having been ginned here and in Mexicali since the start of the season.

Flash lights from America have become so popular in other countries that use of flash-light batteries there was greater than those of radio equipment.

GERMAN PRESS TO PRESERVE FREEDOM

Unique Protection Promised Editorial Men In Bill Now In Preparation

By WALTER DIETZEL
For International News Service, BERLIN, Feb. 4.—German pressmen will probably enjoy the benefits of a journalistic code in the shape of an Editors' Protection bill which the German government is prepared to introduce at one of the first sessions of the new Reichstag.

The main objects of the new bill, which, in its present form, is without precedent since the existence of newspapers, are:

1. To preserve the freedom of the press as an institution devoted to public service.
2. To protect the editor as a servant to public opinion against any abuse on the part of the publisher tending to promote private interests.
3. To wipe out corruption of the press by banishing "press agent" or advertisement "staff" from the editorial columns.

At a Berlin press meeting a government spokesman enlarged on the necessity of such a law as follows:
"Constitutions of all civilized countries provide for the freedom of the press as one of the fundamental privileges of their citizens. To voice their demands and wishes through their papers, to suppress public opinion has always been considered bad statesmanship. However, nothing has been done so far to safeguard this freedom within a newspaper undertaking. There exists no law preventing a publisher from suppressing the truth in his paper against the will and better knowledge of his editors."

"This is where our bill steps in and proposes a remedy. According to the principles of civil law, no employee enjoys privileges as to the conduct of business which his employer pleases to decide upon. He runs the risk of being 'kicked' if he acts against the orders of his 'boss'."

Public Servant
"This should be different with a public. A responsible editor is not purely a business undertaking, but an institution devoted to serve the public. A responsible editor is not merely an employee of his publisher, but a servant to public opinion. Our bill, therefore, proposes to bestow certain privileges upon editors, enabling them to perform their important function, be it even against the explicit orders of the publishers, as soon as they realize that these orders are impeding public interest."

"It is wrong to assume that such a paragraph is liable to encourage anarchy in a newspaper. The publisher, as heretofore, may publish whatever he pleases, but publications which his editors decline to assume the responsibility for must be stamped as such and bear his signature. The publisher may also make himself the chief editor of his own paper, but in this case he is fully responsible for what he writes, and can be called to account for it."

Aim at Corruption
"In order to wipe out corruption of the press, provisions are made to banish press agent staff or advertisements from the editorial columns of a paper. Editors transgressing these provisions will be punished accordingly."

It is predicted that the announcement of the "Editors' Protection bill" will be followed by a sharp controversy between the Publishers' union on one side and the Editors' league and the government on the other.

The original draft of the bill is said to date back as far as the time when Hugo Stinnes was considered the "power behind the throne" of numerous newspaper undertakings, and the bill in its present form undoubtedly aims at dealing a smashing blow at the predominant political influence gained by big capitalist concerns through their papers. In the opinion of the government this influence will sooner or later result in a general corruption of the press, the chief functions of which should be to be a true servant to public opinion and not to promote private interests.

NEW STEEL HEAD

CLEVELAND, Feb. 4.—Wide interest is being taken in the program to be put into effect by E. J. Kulas, just elected president of the Otis Steel Co. He is expected to institute many constructive methods and since he is thoroughly experienced in production of automobile parts, the Otis Co. is expected to reap a substantial volume of business from parts manufacturers.

Huge Cake To Be Exhibited By Music Club

Glendale residents will see the birthday cake of the Glendale Music club in the window of Roberts & Echols drug store, Broadway and Brand boulevard. The cake is in the form of a miniature building, a model of the temple of music, the club hopes to erect in Glendale. Four candles were lighted on the cake last night at the "Founders' Night" celebration at the Tuesday afternoon clubhouse. The cake was to have been cut, but Mrs. M. B. Jones, club president, was prevailed upon to exhibit it so that all Glendale might see it.

JEWEL SALESMEN CLASS IN COLLEGE

California University Starts Course Expected to Be Modern Step

BERKELEY, Feb. 4.—University courses for jewelry salesmen may be the next step in modern education. Although the co-eds show a profound interest in diamonds, the men students are the ones who attend the classes in the study of precious stones, given by Professor A. S. Eakle of the mineralogy department of the University of California.

"Our courses in mineralogy and precious stones lay the foundation for further study in the jewelry trade," says Professor Eakle. "Rocks that appear common and ordinary to most people assume a different aspect to the student of mineralogy. He can determine the physical and chemical properties of rocks and can recognize such minerals as quartz, feldspar and olivine, all of which are used in the development of gem stones. The fundamental value of these courses is the acquiring of a keen power of observation by the student."

The students study under the microscope the various formations of the stones, and also learn their occurrence in the earth. Occasional field trips reveal that the earth is rich in an unlimited supply of minerals that can be developed into beautiful gems.

Precious Collection
In Bacon Hall, on the university campus, there is a collection of minerals and precious stones obtained from practically every country in the world. Gold, silver, iron ores, quartz, gypsum, bronze and tourmalines, beryls and garnets are properly labeled and placed on exhibition for the convenience of the students and to aid them in their study. There is also a collection of rocks obtained after the eruption in January, 1914, of the Volcano Sakurajima, in Japan, that are unique in their formations.

Some of the students take these courses as prerequisites to mining, while others are preparing to enter the gem world. Jewelry making is an old trade dating back into medieval and ancient times, and its different branches open up vast possibilities to the student, including work in appraising, stone setting and engraving.

GRADUATION DRESSES

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Long before examinations have been passed, plans are being made for graduation frocks. These are simple in the extreme. Usually they are of the one-piece, short-sleeved, round-necked type, with a flare given the skirt by an apron effect or wide box pleats placed at either side. Crepe de chine of the pastel shades is the favored material.

TEXTILE CENTER

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 4.—Sites have been purchased and plans completed for the immediate construction of a textile manufacturing center here to cost $3,000,000 and which will have an annual payroll of $1,500,000 to turn California cotton and wool into finished products. Four large New England mills are said to be identified with the project.

VIOLINIST TO WED

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 4.—Mischa Ellman, famous violinist, will marry Miss Helen Katten, daughter of Simon Katten, wealthy San Francisco merchant, this summer, it was announced here today.

'DEAD' BUTCHER IS REVIVED IN COURT

Peasant Tried for Killing Confronted With Man Thought Murdered

MILAN, Feb. 4.—A sensational incident reminiscent of the Michael Arlen stories occurred during a murder trial here recently. A young peasant named Sabatini was charged with murdering the local butcher, and, although he vigorously denied that he had killed the butcher, he admitted that he had struck him during a quarrel, but had not seriously injured him. Testimony was submitted that the butcher had completely disappeared, and that it was apparent that Sabatini had disposed of his body.

The judge was in the midst of passing the death sentence upon Sabatini when a man rushed into court and announced that he was the supposedly dead butcher. "Sabatini knocked me unconscious," he said, "and for weeks afterward I was unable to remember what happened. I heard of this case today for the first time."

The trial was abruptly suspended for evidence of identification.

CRUDE OIL JUMPS

INDEPENDENCE, Kan., Feb. 4.—The latest advances in crude oil in this territory have brought prices higher than at any time since September. The increases have added about $280,000 to the daily incomes of Kansas and Oklahoma producers.

OIL FLOW SLUMPS

SHREVEPORT, La., Feb. 4.—The daily average oil production in the Louisiana and Arkansas fields slumped off last week to 155,369 barrels. The advance in oil prices has failed to stimulate activity. New producers totaled fifteen.

CHIFFON POPULAR

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Chiffon is going to provide the setting for two of the most important events in a young girl's life this spring. She will, in many cases, choose this material for her graduation gown, while her older sister will wear it in her wedding dress.

SUICIDE ATTEMPT

SANTA ROSA, Cal., Feb. 4.—Reprimanded for keeping late hours, Evelyn Hollis, 18, paroled in the custody of a Santa Rosa family from the Sonoma state home for girls, attempted suicide by shooting herself in the chest. Her condition is serious.

Diet And Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

"Dear Doctor: I am 30 years old, height four feet, eleven inches, weight 128 pounds. How much overweight am I?"

"Is there anything I can do for my rings under the eyes? I would be a happy girl if you could give me a remedy for this. I wear glasses and my eyes are not very strong. I am also a little nervous. Would this condition be apt to cause the rings under my eyes?"

"Hoping that you will be able to help me as you have thousands of others, and wishing you continued success in your wonderful work.—M. O."

Our rule for finding the adult net weight is as follows: for five feet in height (in stocking feet) allow 110 pounds; for every inch over, or under, add or deduct, respectively, five and one-half pounds. According to this rule, you should weigh about 105 pounds, so you are 23 pounds overweight. Of course this is an average rule, so you may vary from it somewhat, depending upon the size of your bones, and still be normal.

The condition of your eyes may be due to the eyes themselves, or it may be a sign of general disturbance, possibly from your overweight. I suggest that you see your oculist again and see if your glasses are right, and see your physician for a general health examination AND reduce your weight.

If you missed our reducing instructions, you may have them by sending ten cents in stamps and a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

VITILIGO

S. P.—A man of 40, is bothered with white blotches over his face and arms, and they seem to be increasing. They do not bother him except that they are so noticeable because he has a dark complexion.

These white blotches are known as vitiligo or leucoderma (leuco-white; derma-skin). These spots are the opposite to "liver spots," or chloasma, in that instead of having extra amounts of coloring matter, they have no pigment at all in them. (Sometimes, around the edges of the white spots there will be more pigment than normal). The size of the patches varies from that of a ten-cent piece to immense areas involving nearly the whole body. The general health does not seem to be affected and there seems to be no change in the sensibility of the skin on the spots, except an unusual sensitiveness to the sun's rays. If these spots are on the scalp or other hairy regions, the hair turns white.

The text books say the cause of the disease is not known. It may be due to a disturbance of the nervous supply to the part, or it may be due to a disturbance of the internal secretory or ductless glands. Not knowing the cause of them, the treatment is also unsatisfactory. Sometimes physicians use the glandular products for medication. The thing for you to do is to see a skin specialist and get your general health to the highest possible level.

How about your diet? Is it deficient in vitamins and mineral elements? Are you following our advice—a non-constipating diet including liberal amounts of vegetables, especially green leafy vegetables, some fruit (a large share of these raw) at least two glasses of milk and the whole grain cereals and breads? The ductless glands and skin, in fact, all the organs and tissues of the body are depressed by a deficient diet.

Are you getting vigorous physical exercise every day and do you have plenty of fresh air in the room where you sleep?

Tomorrow—Answers To Correspondents

My Dear Followers—When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with blue ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible; if they are of general interest. Don't forget the same; if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

BATH POWDERS

Powder is good for the skin. At least a pure powder is never harmful, although all powder should be removed from the face at bedtime along with dust, rouge, or whatever else that's unnatural to the complexion. But bath powder, particularly in summer, is really beneficial.

That's chiefly because it can be made antiseptic. If you don't believe it, think of the amount of powder used on small babies! If it's good for them, soothing to anything as delicate as a child's skin, why shouldn't it be good for you? Besides, it feels so nice and luxurious just after a bath, particularly if it's very faintly scented.

You can easily make bath powder. It's usually so expensive to buy that making it seems advisable, and the money saved can be spent so much more profitably on other things to make you prettier. You can use plain talcum powder, which can be bought in quite large cans for 50 cents, or you can make a delightful bath powder at almost no cost, and an antiseptic one, that is cooling in summer and healing at any time, by following these directions:

Buy two packages of corn starch, the sort used in the kitchen for puddings or thickenings, it is only the starchy flour made from ground corn. It's down to 15 or 20 cents a package now, and you can get cheaper qualities for even less; it won't matter, since you aren't making puddings. Buy three ounces of powdered boracic acid, and mix in with the two packages of corn starch, then add half an ounce or one ounce of any scented powder you like. You don't need to bother about the exact proportions. If you want tinted powder, a little powdered rouge will make it pink, so little is needed it won't hurt skin or clothes. The whole big bowlful of bath powder, enough for a year.

Power Is Good for the Skin

without the soiled head. A treatment for them is as follows: Apply peroxide to cleanse, and then prick the head with the point of a needle that has been sterilized. Another application of peroxide should follow this.

Rita L.: Essence of jasmine is sometimes added to a powder for tinting and also because of its delicate perfume. A pure and plain rice powder with this essence added to it makes a satisfactory powder for all general purposes. Tar soap when used in a shampoo is only for dark hair.

Housekeeping

By LAURA A. KIRKMAN

NEW HOUSEFURNISHING IDEAS

most unusual decorative idea in the entire little "house": An old Field bed had been used (with four high posts and a skeleton-like canopy of wood arched over it). An old-fashioned white coverlet covered the mattress, but the pillows were bare, save for their white linen slips. White marquise in a wide mesh had been gathered fully across the top of the canopy so that the gathers ran across, and more white marquise was fastened in a valance completely around the edges of the canopy, falling down to the depth of perhaps a foot, and edged with a delicate white fringe. The highest points of this festooning (that is, where the material was looped up) were decorated with rosettes of the same material. The general effect of this all-white bed was startlingly dainty. Upon inquiry I learned that the marquise set cost $1.50 a yard—not too high a price for one to pay for such a satisfying result. The window coverings in this room were also most original. They were made of green-striped silk taffeta which fell to the floor and were looped back by bands of the same material. An inch-wide slip of the goods, box-pleated, edges the inside of the curtains and the lower part of the band which looped them back.

There was a typical Colonial sitting room (or "Pine Room" as it was called owing to the fact that the woodwork was of pine) and a hall in which was a Benjamin Willard grandfather's clock.

In the Dining Room I was impressed with the flat "squat" seat pads on the rattan bottom chairs. These were made of black satin damask lined with plain black cotton material, and bound around the edges with a cheerful-looking red cord. (Tapes at the corners of these seat-pads tied the cushion to the legs of the chairs.) Another original note was struck in the window over-drapes of expensive gold damask, which had brass rings sewed to the under side about two feet from the top, through which ran a cord by which the curtains could be gracefully looped back. The furniture consisted of the usual dining room pieces in Colonial style (I have not the space to touch on every piece; I am merely trying to mention the original notes in the rooms).

Graduate Honored

Dorothy Erskine, a graduate from Glendale Intermediate school, was honored Saturday night at a graduation party given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don Erskine at their home, 1238 South May land avenue. There were thirty young people entertained. Decorations were in the colors of Glendale High school and Glendale Intermediate school. Narcissus and fern were used. Games, music and dancing were diversions. At a late hour an ice cream cake was served. Mrs. Erskine was assisted by Mesdames J. Walter Hibbert and Emelie Apor. Clever place cards used were painted by Maxine Heasley.

Montana Dinner

Montana people living in Glendale can share in the pleasure of the dinner given next Tuesday night at the Mary Louise Tea room, Los Angeles, by making reservations with Mrs. Evelyn G. Pierce, Glendale 1772-1. Mrs. Pierce is an active member of the Montana Women's Luncheon club, arranging the affair. Husbands of club members will be guests. Dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock, followed by an entertainment program.

Special Guest

Mrs. Roy Ballagh, curator of the fine arts department of the Tuesday Afternoon club, is to be special guest tomorrow at the meeting of the arts and crafts department of the club at the clubhouse from 10 o'clock in the morning until 2 o'clock in the afternoon. She will speak on art. Work to be taken up under the direction of Miss Norris will be silk and ribbon flowers. Mrs. Estelle Brain is curator.

Bridge Benefit

Attractive prizes and delicious refreshments will be features of the benefit card party tomorrow afternoon at the Tuesday Afternoon club. It will be another of the affairs sponsored by the ways and means committee of the club. Club members and friends are invited to attend. Hostesses will be Mesdames C. E. Norton, C. F. Parker, William Roake, Harry Tobias. Bridge games will begin at 2 o'clock.

Value of News

The value of publicity to an organization is to be discussed Friday afternoon at the meeting of the W. C. T. U. at the home of Mrs. G. H. Rowe, 216 South Orange street. Katherine V. Sinks, club editor of The Glendale Evening News, will be one of the speakers on the program. Members are to meet at 2:30 o'clock.

Business Meeting

Routine business will be considered Thursday afternoon at the meeting of St. Mark's Guild in the Guild hall. Mrs. Susan Hill, president, will preside. Following out plans made at the last meeting, there will be appointment of chairmen to arrange Guild activities for the various months throughout the year.

Guests at Lodge

Several out-of-town guests were received last night at the meeting of Glendale Rebekah lodge in Odd Fellows' hall. Mrs. Viola Ertel, noble grand, introduced Mrs. Laura Boardway of Perham, Minn.; F. C. Briggs of Blue Earth, Minn.; Mrs. Esther Rhoades, Mrs. Ida Courter, Leslie Courter of Indianapolis, Ind.; Mrs. Mildred Van Ness and Mrs. Annie Osgood of Grand Rapids, Mich. There were also guests present from Los Angeles lodges. During the evening William Saxon was initiated. Mrs. Margaret La Brum was installed as inside guardian. After the meeting a social hour was enjoyed. The social committee included Mrs. Flora Hollenbeck, Mrs. Grace Hurd, J. G. Bissinger, Henry Hollenbeck, Willis Ertel. Announcements made were that drill practice is postponed from February 10 to February 14; that the Afternoon Club meets February 8 at the hall; that the Past Noble Grand's association meets Friday night, February 13, at the home of Mrs. Marjorie Pease, 525 Riverdale drive.

P. E. O. Chapter

Presidents of P. E. O. chapters in Glendale were specially honored yesterday at the all-day meeting of Chapter CJ at the home of the president, Mrs. J. L. Onstott, 622 North Central avenue. These guests were Mrs. E. U. Emery, president of Chapter L; Mrs. J. Herbert Smith, Chapter AH; Mrs. Josephine Brant, Chapter BA; Mrs. Anna Danielson, Chapter DJ. Other guests were Mrs. Ed M. Lee and Mrs. Elizabeth Reed of Chapter L; Mrs. Beryl Cross of Chapter BA; Mrs. R. L. Bockee was assisting hostess. Luncheon was served on small tables. In the afternoon Mrs. E. W. Hayward read an original paper preliminary to the study of the Federal Constitution, to be taken up at the next meeting.

Reviews Plays

Mrs. Clara Bryant Heywood, chairman of drama for the Los Angeles district, California Federation of Women's clubs, is to review two popular plays Friday afternoon at the meeting of the drama department of the Tuesday Afternoon club. She will review the war play "What Price Glory" by Maxwell Anderson and Laurence Stallings; and "Sun Up," the mountain play by Lulu Vollmer. The business meeting will begin at 2 o'clock in charge of the curator, Mrs. H. C. Vandewater. Hostesses will be Mesdames H. A. Curtis, A. L. Ferguson and J. T. Edwards.

Informal Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Rockhold of 330 Burckett street entertained informally at dinner recently, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Freeman, who are leaving soon for Chile. Covers were laid for ten. Mr. and Mrs. Freeman will leave Monday for Washington on the first lap of the journey to South American, where Mr. Freeman will be engaged in government research work for the Smithsonian institute for the next three years.

Men Entertain

Men of the Fellowship class of First Methodist church entertained women of the J. O. C. class at the church last night. Each class met separately at 8 o'clock in the evening, later enjoying a joint social affair. Readings were given by Mrs. Rehberg and Mrs. Lytle. Mrs. Conner gave songs. A clever entertainment feature was a dressmaking contest, in which the men fashioned dresses from newspapers. Dr. Welch was winner in the contest.

Hear Mrs. Toll

The regular meeting of the Thursday Afternoon club will be held Thursday, February 5, at 2:30 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. A. L. Bancroft, 1429 South Brand boulevard. Mrs. Charles H. Toll, president of Los Angeles district, California Federation of Women's clubs, will be the speaker. Mrs. Carrie Campbell, president, will be in charge. Visitors will be welcomed.

Luncheon Friday

Luncheon, at 12 o'clock will precede the business meeting of the past presidents' club of the Women's Relief corps of N. P. Banks post, G. A. R., Friday at the home of Mrs. C. L. Peckham at 613 North Central avenue. Mrs. Cecilia Houdysel, president, will preside over the afternoon meeting.

Methodist Women

Women of the Aid and Foreign Missionary societies of Casa Verdugo Methodist church will meet all day Thursday at the church. The aid will meet before the noon luncheon. Special speakers will be heard at the missionary meeting in the afternoon.

Law Study Club

"Privileged Motions" is to be the subject of study and drill Friday morning of the Parliamentary Law Club of Glendale, meeting at the Public Library. Mrs. Harry Greenwald, president, has called a board meeting for 9:30 o'clock. The club meets at 10 o'clock.

Because of their super-sensitive hearing, blind men are used to test wireless headphones at a factory in Europe.

AUXILIARY MEETS WITH VETS' CAMP

Joint Session Is Marked by Installation; Plans Are Laid for Future

A joint meeting of Sons of Veterans' camp, No. 22, and Auxiliary No. 7, was held last night in the community building at Sparr Heights, the auxiliary meeting held first, under the direction of the new president, Pearl Gillette. Guests were Marie Deems of Los Angeles, national chaplain and division installing officer; Jennie Gilliland of Riverside, division president; Cora Dunster of Los Angeles, division treasurer; Lucile Deems of Los Angeles, president of Rosecrans auxiliary; Mrs. Deems, commander of Rosecrans camp. Four new members were initiated: Mesdames C. M. Sparr, Mary Bennett, Anna Page and J. L. Simmons.

Committees appointed for the year were Mary Bennett, Marie Scudder, Mary Hull, relief and visiting; Dora Hall, Edna Pierce, Anna Page, floral; Mrs. J. L. Simmons, Cora Stuart, Aline Poers, entertainment; Edna Pierce, Alice McGee, refreshments, Mrs. Deems, installing officer, had charge of the installation of Mrs. E. Mudd as senior vice-president.

Plans were made for a patriotic meeting and program February 17, honoring Lincoln and Washington. The entertainment committee will arrange the affair with the entertainment committee of the camp, Harvey Gillette, Joe Billingsley, Billy Gillette. Auxiliary members who will meet Thursday night with the Legion will be Mary Bennett and Dora Hall.

Three were initiated at the camp's meeting: Joe Billingsley, Harvey Gillette and Billy Gillette. Assisting with the work were Messrs. Paugh, Dunster and Deems of Rosecrans camp. Mr. Paugh installed the following officers: Mr. Scudder, senior vice-commander; Charles Stuart, treasurer; Billy Gillette, chaplain; Joe Billingsley, patriotic instructor, Harvey Gillette, guard.

MERCHANTS FILL PILLING'S PLACE

Name W. H. Fernie Secretary Of Association at Meet Of Directors

W. H. Fernie has been named secretary of the Glendale Merchants' association, to succeed Frank H. Pilling, whose resignation took effect February 1. The selection was made by the directors of the local credit body at a luncheon held yesterday, and in the afternoon Mr. Fernie accepted the position. The following announcement is made by C. J. Hatz, president of the Glendale Merchants' association:

"At a regular meeting of the board of directors of the Glendale Merchants' association, held Tuesday noon, W. H. Fernie was selected as secretary of the association for the ensuing year. Mr. Fernie has been a resident of Glendale for the past year and assumes this position with a fund of very valuable knowledge of Merchants' association work."

Confidence Felt
"The directors feel that they have selected a man who will fill this position 100 per cent efficiently and predict that the coming year will find the Glendale Merchants' association assuming a strong position in the business life of this community."

"Mrs. Blanche H. Gartley, who has been employed in the association office the past three years, will remain at her desk, thus assuring members of the association the same courteous and efficient service to which they have become accustomed."

Reformed God Hater To Preach at Church

Ralph D. Ballard of New York, who claims to have served a sentence in a penitentiary for burning a church, will speak tonight at the Gospel tabernacle at South Louise and East Chestnut streets. Mr. Ballard is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, and while a student it is said he became a hater of God. He cut all words referring to God from his Bible and burned the book. After serving a sentence in the penitentiary for burning a church he was stricken with paralysis. Recovering, he became an evangelist.

Woman Psychologist's First Lecture Tonight

Miss Verona Georgina Hull, psychologist and lecturer, of the California Institute of Applied Psychology, will give the first of a series of six free lectures tonight at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse, under the auspices of the Federated Psychology club of Southern California. The public is invited.

Complete Book

Completing the study book, "Ming Kwong, the City of Light," women of the missionary society of Central Avenue Methodist church, met yesterday afternoon at the home of Miss Julia Goodsell, 125 West Palmer avenue. Mrs. Kenneth Ufford has been in charge of the study.

Farm Relief Board Has Plan of Action

per-Williams bill are embodied whereby a federal marketing board is created to encourage the organization of co-operative marketing associations, co-operative clearing house associations and terminal market associations handling agricultural products.

Plan Explained
"Such a plan," continued Mr. Capper, "does not involve government purchase and resale of farm products nor price fixing by legislative fiat. This offers no artificial stimulant to over production. It takes into consideration that the main flow of agricultural products is from areas of heavy production and sparse population to areas of relatively light production and dense population. These more often than not are widely separated. In many farm commodities production must be conserved for later consumption."

In all farm commodities there is need that available supplies be adjusted to the demand. The plan proposes to meet these needs by means of adjustments that will involve less waste, less loss and less lost motion and so doing reduce the price spread between consumer and producers."

Perhaps the most striking phase of the second report issued by the commission is that which relates to rural credit and banking. The difficulties of agricultural institutions in the agricultural districts are laid to "common causes. The commission makes this pertinent comment:

Banking Problem
"The banking problem so far as agriculture is concerned cannot be approached from an exclusively federal point of view. The national banking system and the federal reserve system leaves outside of these systems under state supervision and control and operating independently approximately two-thirds of the banks of this country."

This is something with which previous reports from experts have dealt but with no resultant action. Of the 30,000 banks in the United States only one-fourth are national and the remainder are state banks. Of the state banks 10,000 are ineligible but 11,000 are eligible. Of this latter number only 1650 are members.

The commission says this results in "a divided system of banking with consequent weakness to the nation's credit structure."

Certain state banking laws stand in the way of curing some of the difficulties and this can only be reached by a campaign of education.

"It is apparent that the country lacks a unified credit system," says the commission, "and that such a system can only be developed by a federal banking policy which will draw eligible non-members into membership in a unified national banking system."

There are, of course, some amendments to the present federal reserve act which may make it more attractive to state banks to enter the federal reserve system. The state banks hesitate to join because in most cases the latitude given by the states as compared with regulation by the federal government is too convenient to some of the state banks to be given up.

The commission, like the federal government, can only hope for the upbuilding of a public sentiment in agricultural regions so that state banks will see the advantages of coming under the federal wing.

The state banks have many friends in Congress and, of course, they can not be reached under federal laws if they take out state charters. Agriculture alone can decide the course that must be adopted to obtain better banking in the farm areas. And the commission has simply said again what the Washington spokesmen on agriculture especially in the executive branch of the government have been saying for several years. Eugene Meyer, managing director of the war finance corporation after a trip through the west two years ago, stressed this weakness above all others.

The commission is analyzing the problems correctly but the practical solution—the program of action—is too big to be accomplished in this session of Congress unless both houses sidetracked all else for the next four weeks.

Five New Cases Show Unabatement In Nome

dispatched here immediately and informed him that difficulties regarding a suitable landing place could be overcome by having the flyers land on the huge ice field just west of Nome in the Bering sea.

Members of the board said they feared the present supply would be exhausted before an airplane arrived now, even if plans for hurrying the serum here were not expedited.

Among the victims today was Sigried Seppella, daughter of Leonard Seppella, the champion musher, winner of the Nome dog derby, who aided in bringing the serum here by dog teams. She was reported dangerously ill.

Musher Recovering
Gunnar Kassen, the master-musher who brought the serum into Nome, was recovering from his fearful trip. He was suffering, it was learned, from a frozen chin and hands.

Kassen, it was revealed today, made the last leg of the trip along the rocky coast while a fierce wind was blowing so strongly that at times it almost swept man and dogs carrying the precious packet of serum into the sea.

At one stage of the trip it was necessary to climb a hill four miles long in a blinding snowstorm.

Dogs' Eyelids Frozen
Kassen, questioned regarding his trip, told of stopping to breathe on the eyelids of his dogs, which were frozen together. The mercury stood at 40 below zero on part of the trip and Kassen found it necessary to breathe on and warm with his hands the eyelids of the black Siberians who made the long "race for mercy."

Four of his dogs were bitten by frost and may die as a result of the trip.

Leonard Seppella, who made a portion of the trek to Nome with the anti-toxin in record-breaking time, was resting along the way. He was expected to arrive here today.

Dr. Otey Says

"Heart Trouble" is often due to obstruction to the blood stream, such as only the osteopaths is trained to remove, contracted muscles, thickened ligaments, stiff joints, bones or other structures out of line just as your automobile "engine trouble" may be due to any defect in the engine but your engine may heat up, the radiator boil over, etc. because you have left your brakes on. If you would like to know whether your case is one that would yield to osteopathic measures, call us or come to our lecture tomorrow night (Thursday, 8 o'clock) in our spacious reception room of our Health Studios.

CHAPTER XXXVIII

"How's Mr. Blunn tonight?" he enquired.

"He's been a little easier, I think, sir," the man replied.

"I wonder whether he'd like to see me?"

"I don't think I'd disturb him, sir. He's locked the door and he seems quite now."

"Are you going to sit there all night?"

"Mr. Blunn's giving me ten dollars a night not to move, in case he wants me. The chief steward's put another man on to look after some of my rooms. Lucky I'm used to sleeping in a chair."

"Goodnight," Grant wished him.

Grant made his way to his own stateroom, exchanged his patent shoes for some dark-colored ones with rubber soles, his dinner jacket for a blue serge coat which buttoned close up to his throat, slipped the latest thing in automatics into his pocket, and went up on deck again by a roundabout way.

It was nearly midnight now, and only a few people were still in evidence. He drew a chair into the recess close up against the glass-enclosed space in front of Blunn's suite and waited until one by one they dispersed and he was entirely alone. Then he rose to his feet, opened the sliding door to which he had the key, and found himself in the little sheltered portion of the deck allotted to the suite. The door opening into the outer room was left upon a hook. There was no sound to be heard inside, although a light was burning. Softly he lifted the hook and peered in. The apartment was evidently the sitting room of the suite and was unattended. He approached inside and listened. Opposite to him was another door, also on the hook, leading to the sleeping room, from which a thin gleam of light shone. He approached it noiselessly. There was still no sound to be heard, not even the breathing of a sleeping man. For some seconds he paused, puzzled by the unbroken silence, then slowly and with the utmost care he lifted the hook and pushed the door open inch by inch. At last the opening was wide enough to admit the upper part of his body. He leaned forward and stood quite still gripping the side of the door. The bed was empty, although in disorder. Cornelius Blunn was seated on a chair before a round table, leaning forward, his head resting upon his arms. He was wearing a heavy dressing gown over his pajamas, and was apparently in an extraordinarily deep sleep. His left hand was stretched out across the table and gripped between his fingers was the end of a chain and some keys. A few inches farther away still was a box of dull yellow metal.

The seconds crept on. Grant could almost feel his own heart thumping. He stepped into the room, hooked the door again, and drew nearer and nearer to the silent figure. Then, as he bent over it, a new horror faced him. He forgot for a moment the great object of his search—forgot that the secrets of a world's salvation were there within his grasp. He stooped down to peer into the stricken face. Human nature, all his powers of restraint, failed him. He gave a little cry. It was a terrible thing to look thus into the face of a dead man. He recovered himself at once. The cry, he realized, had been almost fatal. The steward outside had heard him. There was a heavy knocking at the door. He took no notice. The knocking continued. Then Grant made the effort of his life. He seized the stiffening fingers and dragged from them the end of the chain, unbuttoned the other end from the belt underneath the pajama jacket, slipped it into his pocket and took the casket into his hands. With stealthy footsteps he stole away, unhooked the door and hooked it again, crossed the sitting room, reached the little glass-enclosed deck, passed through on to the farther end. He stood for a moment in the wind to recover himself. They were making about thirty knots an hour through a tumbling sea with little showers of spray thrown glittering into the air. Grant felt the sting of them on his face and in a moment he was himself again. He walked around the bows, descended the gangway from the other side and hurried to Lord Yeovil's suite. There was still a light in the sitting room. He knocked at the door and entered. Lord Yeovil, half undressed, was finishing a whiskey and soda. He looked at the intruder without saying a word. Grant slipped the bolt through the door.

"I've got it," he announced breathlessly. "I've got the casket"

There was pandemonium on the Sofalonia for the last four hours before she reached dock. The horror of a death on shipboard was deepened by the fact that Cornelius Blunn, who had consistently declined to allow any doctor to examine him, had shown no signs whatever of the heart disease which had ended his life so abruptly. But apart from the tragedy itself there were two men on the steamer, Prince Lutrecht and Prince von Dies, whom the event seemed to have reduced to an almost hysterical state. The captain scarcely knew how to deal with the situation which their importunities created. They refused even to leave his room. Their persistence was becoming intolerable.

"Commander," Prince Lutrecht said earnestly, "you are an Englishman, and I know that you are a lover of fair play. I tell you that last night there was stolen from Cornelius Blunn's room a casket containing political documents of the most vital importance to the future of the world. Those documents, if they fell into the wrong hands, might lead to a terrible and disastrous war. They were carried about by Cornelius Blunn in defiance of our wishes and it might very well be that he has met with his death in defending them. But they have been stolen and are, at the present moment, concealed upon this ship, and I appeal to you, as the one responsible person here, to assist us towards their restoration."

"But what can I do, Prince?" the captain expostulated. "I have nine hundred and seventy-five passengers on board. Do you wish every one of them searched?"

"Not every one," Prince Lutrecht replied. "The person who must be responsible for this robbery is Mr. Grant Slattery. He and Cornelius Blunn were enemies, yet he was always stopping to speak to him. He learned the way into his suite. Without a doubt Slattery was the thief."

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGLY AND JOHNNIE'S TAIL

"Come on, Johnnie!" called Billie Bushytail, the squirrel boy, to his brother one day. "Let's play hide and go seek!"

"I will if you'll be it, and blind," chattered Johnnie.

"All right," agreed Billie. So he covered his eyes with his paws, and began to count: "One, two, three," and so on up to a hundred. And while Billie was counting, Johnnie ran to hide himself so his brother couldn't find him.

Not far away from where the squirrel brothers were playing this game was Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow. As Johnnie ran through the woods he thought to himself:

"Uncle Wiggily's house will be a good place to hide in. Billie will never think of looking for me there!"

So into the butny's bungalow dashed the little squirrel boy, and, as it happened, Mr. Longears had just gone out to seek an adventure.

"What's the matter, Johnnie?" asked Uncle Wiggily, looking up in surprise as Johnnie dashed in. "Are the bad chaps after you?"

"No, I'm just hiding from Billie. We're playing a game. I don't want him to find me."

"Then hide under the table," said Uncle Wiggily, "and wait—over else you do, keep your tail down."

"Why?" asked Johnnie.

"Because," answered Uncle Wiggily, "if Billie sees your tail sticking out he'll know it is you. No one else has such a queer, bushy tail as you squirrels, so keep your tail down."

"I will," promised Johnnie, as he hid beneath the table. Billie went on counting until he had reached a hundred, and then he started out to look for his brother. He searched behind trees and bushes and in holes under rocks, but Billie couldn't find Johnnie. Then Billie scampered over toward the bungalow.

Through the window Uncle Wiggily saw him coming.

"Keep your tail down, Johnnie! Keep your tail down!" whispered the bunny to the squirrel under the table.

A little while after that someone was heard entering the door. Uncle Wiggily and Johnnie thought it was Billie, but it wasn't. It was the Skilley Scallory Alligator. What the 'Gator was doing out in the cold it don't know, for he was supposed to be asleep all winter. But, anyhow, he was out, and in the bungalow he crawled.

"Oh, ho!" bellowed the 'Gator, as he saw Uncle Wiggily sitting at the table, reading a book. "I have found you in!"

"I wish you had found me out!" sighed the bunny.

"Now I'm going to sit down and have something to eat," went on the bad chap, looking hungrily at

Uncle Wiggily.

Johnston, a Civil war veteran and Methodist minister; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Hazard, recently married; Miss Ida Hawke, Mrs. Collins, Mrs. Tower and Miss Ruth Tower, Dr. Lincoln A. Ferris, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Glendale, was unable to be present for luncheon, but called for a moment to greet those present.

FATHERS TO JOIN SONS AT BANQUET

'Y' Urges Parents to Attend
Next Monday Night at Annual Affair

Secretary Rex C. Kelley of the Glendale Young Men's Christian association, in commenting on the coming father-and-son banquet, said:

"More especially now than ever before the father is getting too far away from his boy, and the care and attention due his children must necessarily fall upon the mother. Too great stress cannot be laid on the necessity for a father to cultivate to his utmost a perfect confidence in his son or sons. The mother understands the girls better than he, but the boy has a right to look to and expect counsel from his father.

"From the moment the doctor says 'It's a boy' the father should realize his fatherhood and all that it implies has begun. A boy needs a father, one who understands him and whom he can confide in. He loves his mother, but there is that peculiar condition which will give him an appealing interest in his father, if his father will cultivate his friendship.

Banquet Monday

"Father-and-son banquets, such as the one to be held in Glendale next Monday night at 6 o'clock in the Presbyterian church under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian association, have accomplished much in bringing into closer relations fathers and sons. Nothing is grander than a close and mutual interest, each in the other between father and son. The father is the one who must cultivate this interest. The son is anxious for the true relationship, but if the father neglects the boy by being too busy to be bothered with the kid it is human nature for the son to look elsewhere for his confidant."

The report by the boys' committees given at their H-Y meeting last night promises the most successful father-and-son gathering in the history of Glendale.

Council Minutes

Minutes of the Glendale City Council, prepared by city clerk

The minutes of the City Council, City of Glendale, for February 3, 1925:

Council assembled at 10 a. m. All members present. Minutes of January 29 read and approved. Councilman Kimlin introduced a resolution entitled, "A resolution adopting map of Tract 8714 and accepting on behalf of the public the avenues, streets, alleys and public places shown thereon," which was read, and on his motion seconded by Councilman MacBain, the same was numbered Resolution No. 2731 and adopted.

Clerk informed the Council that this was the time, hour and place where all persons interested might appear and state their objections, if any, against any action of the council of the city of Glendale, California, to determine the aggregate amount of unpaid assessments for the improvement of Sycamore Canon road, Broadway, Wilson avenue, Stanley avenue, California avenue and Verdugo road in said city, and providing for the issuance of bonds therefor, and prescribing the denomination, as more particularly described in resolution of intention No. 2592, passed by the said council September 1, 1924, and the clerk also reported to the council that he had not received any written protests or objections up to the time set for the hearing. Whereupon the mayor asked if there were any interested persons present who desired to be heard, and all interested persons having been given full opportunity to show cause why said bonds should not be issued in accordance with the determination of the council, no objections oral or written having been presented, on motion of Councilman Kimlin, seconded by Councilman MacBain, duly carried, all protests were denied.

Whereupon Councilman Davis introduced a resolution entitled, "A resolution of the council of the city of Glendale, California, relating to the issuance of street improvement bonds pursuant to resolution of intention No. 2592, determining the amount of unpaid assessments, prescribing the denomination of such bonds, and providing for their issuance," which was read, and on his motion seconded by Councilman Kimlin, the same was numbered Resolution No. 2732 and adopted.

Clerk informed the council that this was the time, hour and place where all persons interested might appear and state their objections, if any, against any action of the council of the city of Glendale, California, to determine the aggregate amount of unpaid assessments for the improvement of Cerritos avenue, Gardena avenue and San Fernando road in said city, and providing for the issuance of bonds therefor, and prescribing the denomination, as more particularly described in resolution of intention No. 2520, passed by the said council July 31, 1924, and the clerk also reported to the council that he had not received any written protests or objections up to the time set for the hearing. Whereupon the mayor asked if there were any interested persons present who desired to be heard, and all interested persons having been given full opportunity to show cause why said bonds should not be issued in accordance with the determination of the council, no objections oral or written having been presented, on motion of Councilman Kimlin, seconded by Councilman MacBain, duly carried, all protests were denied.

Whereupon Councilman Kimlin introduced a resolution entitled, "A resolution of the council of the city of Glendale, California, relating to the issuance of street improvement bonds pursuant to resolution of intention No. 2444, determining the amount of unpaid assessments, prescribing the denomination of such bonds, and providing for their issuance," which was read, and on his motion seconded by Councilman MacBain, the same was numbered Resolution No. 2734 and adopted.

Petition signed by property owners in the district to be assessed for the improvement of streets in the Lake street district, asking that proceedings now under way include bonds under 1915 Act, was read. Moved by

Councilman Davis, seconded by Councilman Kimlin, duly carried, that city attorney and city engineer be instructed to include in the proceedings for the improvement of streets in Lake street district 1915 bond act.

Petition signed by property owners, asking that lots 10 and 11, tract No. 7389, be set aside as commercial district, was read. Moved by Councilman Kimlin, seconded by Councilman MacBain, duly carried, that city clerk be instructed to set the necessary date of hearing before the Planning commission, February 16 and before the council, February 19.

Petition signed by property owners, asking that lots 26 to 38 both inclusive, tract No. 8435 be removed from industrial district, was read. Moved by Councilman Kimlin, seconded by Councilman MacBain, duly carried, that city clerk be instructed to set the necessary date of hearing before the Planning commission, February 16 and before the council, February 19.

Improve Broadway

Petition signed by property owners, asking that proceedings be started for the installation of Union Metal Co. two-light ornamental standards, same as now installed on Broadway east of Everett street, Broadway between Everett street and Glendale avenue, was read. Moved by Councilman Kimlin, seconded by Councilman MacBain, duly carried, that city attorney and superintendent of plant and production be instructed to draft the necessary proceedings.

Moved by Councilman Kimlin, seconded by Councilman MacBain, that city manager and city attorney request the Pacific Electric that service granted as a power conservation measure be returned to original fifteen minute service.

Moved by Councilman Davis, seconded by Councilman Kimlin, duly carried, that the following resolution be adopted: "Resolved by the council of the city of Glendale, in accordance with the provisions of section 41 of ordinance No. 964, passed June 26, 1924, and entitled, 'An ordinance of the council of the city of Glendale fixing the salaries of the officials of said city, authorizing employment of certain employees and fixing the compensation or rates of pay therefor, and repealing all ordinances conflicting therewith, all officers, assistants, deputies, clerks and employees of the city of Glendale who have been in the service of the city continuously for period of one year or more at any date prior to December 15, 1925, are hereby granted leave of absence with full pay for twelve working days, exclusive of holidays, during the calendar year 1925, following the expiration of such year of continuous employment, but only at such times as the city manager may in writing designate for each such officers, assistants, deputies, clerks and employees who has previously filed a written application with him requesting such leave of absence.'"

Moved by Councilman Davis, seconded by Councilman MacBain, that city clerk be instructed to advertise for bids for the construction of sections 4 to 12 inclusive, intercepting sewer mains, bids to be opened Tuesday, March 3, 1925, at 10 a. m.

Moved by Councilman Kimlin, seconded by Councilman MacBain, duly carried, that the following resolution be adopted: "Resolved by the council of the city of Glendale that the city clerk be directed to advise the sale of sixty of the 1924 fire department bonds in accordance with the attached notice, by publishing said notice two times in The Glendale Evening News, a daily newspaper of general circulation, printed, published and circulated in said city, and the official newspaper of said city."

Moved by Councilman Kimlin, seconded by Councilman MacBain, duly carried, that petty cash demand of V. B. Stone, city manager, in the sum of $24.22 be allowed and ordered paid.

Ordinance

Moved by Councilman Kimlin, seconded by Councilman Davis, that ordinance entitled, "An ordinance amending ordinance No. 529, passed January 12, 1922, and entitled, 'An ordinance of the city of Glendale establishing a residential district, an industrial district and four commercial districts in said city; regulating and restricting the location and locations of and the maintenance and carrying on of industries, trades and businesses in said city; providing for a residential, industrial and commercial district map of said city; prescribing the penalty for the violation hereof; and repealing certain ordinances,' by adding thereto a new section to be numbered Section 4aa30," introduced January 27, 1925, be adopted. Vote as follows:

Ayes: Davis, Kimlin, Robinson. Noes: Gilhuly, MacBain. Absent: None.

In accordance with provisions of Charter, ordinances creating a zone must be passed by a four-fifths vote. Vote being 3 to 2, therefore motion was lost.

Councilman Gilhuly introduced an ordinance entitled, "An ordinance amending section 1 of ordinance No. 1005, passed November 6, 1924, and entitled, 'An ordinance of the city of Glendale establishing school crosswalks at certain intersections of streets in the city of Glendale, directing the chief of police of said city to indicate said crossings by certain lines and arrows painted upon the highways, regulating all traffic thereon, and prescribing a penalty for the violation thereof, was read and laid on the table.

Councilman Kimlin introduced an ordinance entitled, "An ordinance amending ordinance No. 529, passed January 12, 1922, and entitled, 'An ordinance of the city of Glendale establishing a residential district, an industrial

Councilman Gilhuly introduced a resolution entitled, "A resolution of the city council of the city of Glendale, authorizing the publication of notice to sell a franchise for the period of twenty-five (25) years to construct, operate and maintain a single track electric street railway, together with the right to construct the necessary curves, turn-outs, switches, spur tracks, poles and equipment for the purpose of transporting passengers, baggage, United States mail, freight, express matter and such other commodities as can be conveniently handled by an electric railway over and along certain streets in the city of Glendale," which was read, and on his motion seconded by Councilman Kimlin, the same was numbered resolution No. 2735 and adopted.

Councilman Davis introduced a resolution entitled, "A resolution of the council of the city of Glendale abandoning proceedings for the improvement of portions of Howard street, Broadway, Geneva street, Wilson avenue, California avenue, Lexington drive and Doran street in the city of Glendale as contemplated by resolution of intention No. 2725, adopted by the said council January 22, 1925," which was read, and on his motion seconded by Councilman Kimlin, the same was numbered resolution No. 2736 and adopted.

Councilman Kimlin introduced a resolution entitled, "A resolution of the council of the city of Glendale adopting plans and specifications for the construction of sections 4 to 12, inclusive, intercepting mains for the city of Glendale, California," which was read, and on his motion seconded by Councilman Davis, the same was numbered resolution No. 2737 and adopted.

Councilman Kimlin introduced a resolution entitled, "A resolution approving a certain agreement between the Security Trust and Savings Bank as trustee, the estate of Belle C. Thom as trustor, and W. Leinert and others as beneficiaries, on the one part, and the city of Glendale on the other part, and authorizing the execution of said agreement," which was read, and on his motion seconded by Councilman Gilhuly, the same was numbered resolution No. 2738 and adopted.

Moved by Councilman Davis, seconded by Councilman Gilhuly, duly carried, that meeting be adjourned.

You Wouldn't Build a House Without a Bathroom

The bath is included without question in plans for the new home. That it adds to the cost is not considered. It is accepted as essential to the modern house.

Permanent construction, particularly in walls, is just as necessary for true comfort and economy. The actual cost of enduring walls over makeshift material is less than that of the average bathroom. Yet some short sighted or ill informed builders attempt to "save" by shoddy construction.

Concrete Masonry units are the highest type of permanent structural material. A wall built of this type affords insulation against heat and cold; acts as a barrier to fire; reduces upkeep and increases the value of the home as an investment.

Four-room cottage or twelve-room house, your home can be built with Concrete Masonry with equal economy and satisfaction.

Durable and attractive homes are well within the reach of every prospective owner.

No other material possesses the combined superior qualities of Concrete Masonry in home construction.

"A Plain Talk on Beautiful Homes," is an interesting, attractively illustrated book for home builders. Write today for your free copy.

What is the "Check" Seal

1. When you build or buy a home you want to know that the electrical installation is made by an electrical contractor who does complete electrical wiring, installs convenient connections for electrical appliances and uses standard wiring devices.

2. When you need electrical appliances, you want to select an electrical retailer who sells quality electrical merchandise.

The "Check" Seal identifies such contractors and retailers for you. Before you build or buy, insist on "Check" Seal electrical wiring. When you need electrical appliances or equipment buy where you see the "Check" Seal.

BERLENBACK AND 'TIGER' FLOWERS

Paul Gets Slight Edge In Last Battle; Is Due to Box Atlantan

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Having won over Tony Marullo on points, Paul Berlenbach will prepare to deal with Tiger Flowers, whose knockout the other night over Tommy Robson of Malden, Mass., brought the Atlantan into the limelight once more. Fighters, no matter how good, are not knocking Tommy Robson around with impunity. In fact, the sleeping potion he received from Flowers was the first in his career.

If you take Jack Delaney's fight against Flowers and Berlenbach's against Tony Marullo at the Garden on Friday night the only idea to be obtained is that Delaney has the class over Paul just as much today as when he knocked the former wrestler out.

The decision in the Berlenbach-Marullo bout did not please a great many of the spectators, who seemed to think that the least of the southerners should have got was a draw.

Certain it is that if ever a battler earned a draw it was Marullo. Yet on the other hand, an actual tally of points would give Berlenbach a slight edge, he having taken seven of the twelve rounds and Marullo five; but in respect of points the best way to judge this fight was to figure what would have happened had it gone to a finish, or say to twenty or twenty-five rounds.

Figuring this way there seems hardly a doubt that Berlenbach had the strength and endurance and punching power to have stowed the game and the clever New Orleans fighter away.

Marullo and Berlenbach put up as thrilling a battle for six rounds as a fight crowd ever saw. They fought the first one of two battleships flying close together and firing broadside at each other.

All the hitting was free and clean. You could see the blows start and see them whistle to their targets. Why one or the other—or both—did not fade away under the terrific bombardment puzzled the spectators who have not been accustomed to seeing such iron jawed, oak ribbed bruisers in action. But it was Marullo who got tired first and from the ninth round to the twelfth Berlenbach was making the fight and giving his man a bad beating.

Marullo opened the fight with the spirit of a pit bull terrier. He went into Paul so ferociously that Berlenbach never did get set the whole round and took a pretty good beating. In the second Marullo was still full of fight but before the frame was over Berlenbach got himself in hand and began to pump rights and lefts into his onrushing opponent.

The first fight in which Berlenbach had used his right to any great extent.

But Friday night he had to use it. In fact he could have made use of a couple of additional hands, too. In the fourth round Marullo showed to advantage and in the seventh he showed up his man in good style pasting him with everything. But after that Berlenbach's rugged strength stood him in stead and had he not been slow and stupid he probably could have put Tony away.

Johnson May Secure Franchise for Vernon

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 4.—Walton Johnson, pitching ace of the Washington Americans, continued today to emulate Mr. Tenyson's well-known poem about the brook in his efforts to break into ownership of a baseball club in the Pacific Coast league.

Today Johnson was reported to be arranging the purchase of the Vernon club, Los Angeles, with William Gibbs McAdoo, Myles F. Laker, manager of a New York newspaper syndicate, and George Weiss of New Haven, Conn., as his associates.

It was reported Ed R. Maier, owner of the Vernon franchise, was ready to sell, and that a difference of only a few thousand dollars remained to be adjusted to swing the deal.

Tummies And Mash Notes Help Put Baseball Stars On 'Retirement' List

By NORMAN E. BROWN Written for The Evening News

A nervous stomach may spell the end of Charlie Hollocher's baseball days just at the stage when he should be establishing his place in the diamond hall of fame beyond all question of doubt as to his worth and greatness.

The brilliant Cub shortstop has been placed on the "voluntarily retired" list by the club owners pending his decision as to whether or not he can continue in the game.

Players on that list are still the property of the club so listing them if they care to resume baseball activities after retiring. In Hollocher's case the Cub bosses explain that such a move is the fairest one as far as he is concerned. It eliminates the necessity of signing a contract until he—and the club owners—decide what his chance of delivering the goods next season may be. In other words, the club can't lose.

Mention of Hollocher's case recalls several other men who have retired from the game before their usefulness was passed for some odd reason.

Too Many Admirers Artie Schaefer, dapper infielder of the New York Giants, retired several years ago for the expressed reason that he could not endure the flood of perfumed mash notes he received daily from fair fans.

Last year Cliff Markle did not quit baseball but passed up a chance to pitch for the New York Yankees because, he explained, the exclusive social set of the team refused to recognize his presence.

Also, mention of that "list" recalls how the club owners have made somewhat of a joke of it, departing far from the original intent. The lists show, for instance, that Jimmy Archer, former Cub and Tiger catcher, must do business with the Brooklyn club first if he ever returns to the game in any capacity. He has been out of the pastime for nearly ten years.

The Giants still fear that Big Jeff Tesreau, who quit pitching about ten years ago to become a college baseball coach, might come back and help one of their "hated rivals" win a pennant. So they continue to keep Tesreau on the list.

Must See Giants The aforementioned Artie Schaefer must return to the Giants or do business with them first if he ever decides to brave the love letters again.

There's no player limit for the list, however, so the bosses can hang onto all of them.

A year ago, when Hollocher first showed signs of being "off" from there was considerable talk that he desired a change in scenery. At the time several rumors of impending deals which were to take him to one National league club or another were rumored.

There was even talk of a swap between the Cubs and Cardinals involving him and Rogers Hornsby. At first it was believed that his discontent had something to do with Hollocher's illness. His earnest efforts to eliminate the trouble have since dispelled all such talk.

Motor car services are operated by the government in some districts of Java, but the venture has been unprofitable.

Strangler Lewis Wins By Using Aged Trick

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—Ed "Strangler" Lewis brought an old trick into play in his wrestling match with Joe Mondt here last night and won the third and deciding fall of the greatest match seen here in many a season.

The "strangler" raised high in the murky atmosphere and was preparing to dash him heavily to the mat for the decision. Lewis' feet were about even with Mondt's knees, and Ed made a heavy kick, knocking one of the knees double and felling Mondt like a shot.

Mondt fell, Lewis clutched desperately, got a headlock and laid his opponent prostrate. The fall took 10:15.

The first fall went to Lewis in 47:05, with his favorite hold, and Mondt won the second in 37:22, with a figure-four or jackknife scissors on the arm.

Wayne Munn, Nebraska giant, who claims the title by a referee's decision, received an ovation from the crowd when he appeared in his wrestling garb and, with his wrestling mate, Jack McCarthy, showed just what happened in the much-discussed Kansas City bout with Lewis.

SPORT CHATTER

By DAVIS J. WALSH, For International News Service.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—The choice morsel of backstairs gossip today is that the apparently defunct Cincinnati-New York deal involving as many as five ball players, is about to be or has been revived. Protracted conferences between John McGraw and Jack Hendricks during the two-day meeting of the National league, brought to a close yesterday, have lent color to the story.

At least one practical baseball man has assured the writer that the business is on the fire and coming to a boil with commendable rapidity.

Eddie Roush, candidate for a New York transfer according to the local viewpoint, is one individual who has provided exercise for idle tongues. Edward, it is whispered, was the subject of our Mr. McGraw's lengthy dissertation. Another report had it that Eppa Rixey and Pete Donahue, pitchers, furnished the topic of conversation.

Hendricks, of course, has a single interest in first basemen at the moment and according to the best advice, discouraged learnedly and at some length on the story of George Kelly. It is not admitted in the local camp that Kelly is on the market but it is significant that rumors were in the air following the last world's series that McGraw had soured on the lengthy one.

Cincinnati would want plenty for Roush and McGraw has none to spare to give him. With either Rixey or Donahue he could step out with the ingredients of a reasonable trade.

When the deal was first broached early in the winter, it is understood that the Reds offered Adolfo Luque, the Cuban, to the Giants but McGraw spurned him haughtily.

Let them dance while they can. When they get old they'll have rheumatism in their shoulders.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—In order to save the Drake relays, famous throughout the country, citizens of Des Moines, Iowa, have united to build a new $250,000 stadium for the university.

Fear of losing the relays because of the poor equipment and small size of the present amphitheatre—it seats only eight thousand spectators—and inadequate housing facilities is responsible for the building project.

It has become known that a plan is under discussion in Chicago to attempt to take the Drake relays to the large Grant Park stadium. This aroused Des Moines to the necessity of immediate action.

Moreover the University of Kansas relays at Lawrence, Kans., has been a source of worry. The meet takes place one week in advance of the Drake affair and an increasing number of athletes and spectators have been migrating to the Kansas games where facilities are fully equal to any reasonable demand.

Des Moines has no desire to lose her pet athletic event. It is regarded not only as an asset to the university but directly beneficial to the city. This being so, the greater Des Moines committee, an organization made up of the leading business men of the city, was held last week and decision was reached to build a stadium for the university.

A special stadium corporation will be formed and bonds bearing 6 per cent interest will be issued and sold to the public. Drake university will guarantee the payment of the bonds and when they have outside the stadium will be the property of the college.

Immediately after the closing of the Drake relays on April 24 and April 25 next, the work of construction will begin. It will be ready for the 1925 football season, and will have seating accommodations for 24,000 spectators with facilities for adding four thousand additional seats at short notice. The stadium will be so constructed that it can be double decked when increased seating capacity becomes necessary.

Approximately 1500 athletes compete in these annual games and it has been necessary to provide temporary quarters for them. To rectify this condition a field house outside the stadium will be built at a cost of $90,000. It will contain ample locker space, showers and the like and there is a good chance that an indoor track and basketball auditorium will be contained therein.

Aside from track, football is beginning to flourish at Drake and with the inspiration of a commodious stadium it is expected that the Des Moines institution will make even greater strides in the gridiron game.

The larger portion of the bonds will be sold locally and will not, as in so many other cases which have been productive of trouble, be confined to students and alumni.

Genoa, Italy, has overtaken Marseilles, France, as a shipping port, and now is the leading port of the Mediterranean.

DYNAMITERS WILL PLAY TWO GAMES

Lightweights, Fleaweights Tackle Covina Squads Here Tomorrow

By ROSS M. RUSSELL, Of The Evening News Staff.

The fourth and next-to-last basketball game for the Glendale lightweights and fleaweights will come off tomorrow, when the local boys take on their rivals from Covina in games which will have pretty much to do in deciding the championships of the league. The 110-pounders play in the preliminary at 3:30 o'clock, while the 130's hook up as soon as the smoke of the first battle has cleared.

Coach "Nuco" Butterfield has his charges in fine fettle for the coming game and expects to come out on top, or at least give the Colts strong opposition. Captain Archie Neel will start at center for the Glendale quintet, with Wilbur Harrison and Johnny Lovell as forwards and Elmer Muff and Jack Alvord as guards. This five has improved its work until now it has a fairly perfect attack and defense. With their month of training the locals have been molded into a first-class combination by Butterfield and ought to prove hard for the Covina bunch to beat.

Fleaweights Ready Coach "Hairbreadth" Harry Hicks is putting the finishing touches on his little court demons for the preliminary game. "Pee-wee" Reed and Jerry Osier will probably start at forwards, with "Alley" Lovell as center and Monte Killinger and Dick Randall at guards. In all previous games "Pee-wee" Reed has starred with his fast floor-covering and accurate-shooting ability and tomorrow will most likely lead the Firecrackers' attack.

Both teams stand in their respective leaguery with a .66 average, having dropped one game apiece and topped two. The lightweights received their defeat from Alhambra, and won from South Pasadena and Monrovia. The fleaweights met their Waterloo in the second game, with South Pasadena and the Moors and the Firecrackers. If both teams win tomorrow they will have a good chance of finishing at the top of their divisions.

RINGSIDE GOSSIP BY FAIR PLAY

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Whether Jack Dempsey and Jack Kearns have come to a business parting of the ways there is no doubt in the mind of a person who knows both men that they parted long ago in tastes, habits of life and ambitions.

Kearns today is what he always has been, a prize-fighter manager—shrewd, courageous to the limit, and wise to all the ways of the trade. No promoter or rival manager ever should or ever will have any chance of putting anything over on the Doc.

Dempsey on the other hand is not what he used to be, that is to say not a pugilist pure and simple, with a pug's outlook on life. When he got to be champion and meet men he never had a chance of meeting before, he developed a burning ambition to be like those men. In the old days he loved to fight for the sake of a fight and would battle with anyone.

Later, as he acquired various tastes and inclinations and ambitions, he came to look upon fighting merely as a means to an end. The cheers of the crowd he appreciated at their precise value. Loud though they may cheer him in his victories he well knew they would cheer louder for the man who stowed him away.

Dempsey has a retentive memory and when he began to apply it in the acquisition of general knowledge he made rapid progress. No man who knows something that Jack does not know, yet wants to know, escapes from the champion without any exhaustive interrogation.

In this way and by reading, Dempsey has practically made himself over. He would like to be a business man, with all the respect and prestige that comes to a citizen engaged in the constructive things of life. He detests the theatre and has no love for the life of a movie actor.

He has undoubtedly entered upon a business life in the near future and it remains to be seen how well he will get along without the assistance of Jack Kearns' clever and versatile mind.

One thing seems certain Dempsey is likely to hold on to a lot of the money he has made. He is not a spender; in fact his one extravagance is handing out coin to hard luck friends, or to men who tell him they used to be friends of his. But otherwise he keeps a tight hold on his roll, and when he invests any of it he doesn't do it until he has had the best advice obtainable.

Kearns on the other hand is pretty prodigal with his dough and that is why talk of the champion's retirement rubs him raw. He needs what Dempsey can earn for him.

If, as it is reported, Kearns takes on Mickey Walker it will be the greatest thing that ever happened to the welter champion.

But it looks as though Kearns, Dempsey and company would figure in at least one more bout. The Gibbons ballyhoo has been so loud and persistent this past week that no other conclusion is possible.

Dempsey says he will marry and not fight again. Gibbons lays claim to the championship title. Dempsey starts up enraged, asking who this is who thinks he can grab his title without fighting for it. And so on and so on, until the dear old public is all steamed up to the $27.50 ringside seat notch.

JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—The minor leagues, it appears, have won their point about the optional player limit being fixed at eight. If it is increased above eight it will be with the consent of the minors. And not because an arbitrary order places the limit on any number that may be deemed best by any one official in baseball.

This question of optional players is one of the most vital that confronts the minor leagues. It has been their contention, whenever the subject of the draft and the placing of players by the majors has been brought up, that the majors, little by little, are extending their control over too great a proportion of the available baseball material. Recently some of the majors have been placing as many as fifteen players in the minor leagues "on option."

When Commissioner Landis assumed office, the minors declined to accept the draft. Since then all the class A. A. circuits have agreed to a modified draft. Meanwhile by authorization of the commissioner, the fifteen-player option-limit has been brought into being. The draft plan, however, provides for the farming out of only eight players.

It is that fact which has raised particular Ned ever since the Hartford meeting, and the minors, fighting for a principle, are said to have been assured that they will be met in joint convention of some sort at which it will be agreed just how many players may be put out with a string, and that the agreement will be kept.

This is the point for which the minors have been contending, and there is no reason in the world why their wishes should not be granted. They have fully as much right to get into the player business as their big brothers, who wish to absorb all the high-class playing material they can.

Under the present arrangement, each major club controls forty players during the so-called winter season. That is forty players in all, who are enlisted under the big league club colors. If the theory that nine players constitute a team amounts to anything, the sixteen major clubs have enough material to make seventy-one ball teams.

The minors claim that at least one-third, and perhaps one-half of this baseball material is either held away from them, or is optioned out to them, and that they cannot get a fair percentage of the general run of youngsters in the country because the majors have strings tied to everything.

For that reason they have been trying their best to have an end put to the fifteen-player option arrangement so that they may occasionally have a player for themselves, and not be compelled to develop a kid and then turn him over to the majors without compensation as soon as he begins to show something.

The minors argue that the more freedom they have for selection, the better it is for baseball, and they are right. Past experience has proved that the greater the liberty enjoyed by the minor circuits, the better the class of players developed. And that would help the majors as well as the minors.

Romans Set Precedent With Boxing for Duel

ROME, Feb. 4.—For the first time in the history of Italy an "affair of honor" has been settled by a boxing match. Captain Delarosa and Signor Podessa, president of the boxing federation, chose fists instead of swords to settle the dispute which arose between them at a political meeting recently.

The captain looked like the winner at the end of the fourth round, but his opponent gave the final knockout punch early in the fifth. The fencing society is seriously perturbed by this precedent, which threatens fencing as the accepted means of settling such affairs.

NEIS TO BOSTON

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Announcement was made today by the Brooklyn National league club that it had traded Outfielder Bernie Neis to Boston for Infielder J. A. "Cotton" Tierney.

The deal, which is subject to the approval of Wilbert Robinson, Brooklyn manager, who is recovering from a recent illness in Baltimore, was made public through the local offices by Charles Ebbets, who is wintering in Florida.

Opinions

By JOSEPH L. KELLEY, Of The Evening News Staff.

Have you sold your house and lot and sent all your money to the "reformed" cult headquarters in L. A.? If not, you're going to be out of luck, according to the best informed circles in the "reformed" movement. Friday is the day. The good will go horseback-riding through the clouds; the bad will be left to shift for themselves with all remaining autos at disposal. There won't be enough autos to go around, it is feared. What is going to become of old Mother Earth isn't made quite plain. The only fact the reformers seem to be sure about is that all loose shekels and property without a mortgage on it should be turned in to the reformers. What good the shekels and the property will do the L. A. headquarters of reformers if they're going horseback-riding with a one-way ticket, is not so clear.

That's the best definition of cowardice we have heard given. Only a coward would go horseback riding under those conditions. These reformers might have the right dope about all things ending but they have a funny way of preparing for breakfast the next morning.

The big splash is supposed to begin at midnight. The Four Horsemen are going to sneak up on Old Mother Earth and her inhabitants under cover of darkness. More monkey business. Four Horsemen are going to take "ions" of people through the clouds.

All of which gives a lot of psychologists an excellent chance to hit the front pages of the dailies denying the end and giving the real "low down."

Some of 'em are wise enough to steer a middle course. They'll be right there whether the Four Horsemen arrive or not. Nothing like being on the safe side. There will be a lot of "I-told-you-sos" ready for exploitation next Saturday.

One woman psychologist dared the assertion that there was going to be a change, not the end. It doesn't take a particularly brilliant student of psychology or barnyard golf or much darning to make that prognostication. Even Mexico will vouch for that without thinking.

A change is inevitable. Now if that woman psychologist only had prophesied a change for the better then she would proudly class herself with shoe-string merchants, rail heads and the Republican party. They've all said the same thing.

Fortunately America doesn't take the "reformers" seriously. A scattered few who are reported to have sold everything they possess and sent the proceeds to "headquarters" will wake up Saturday morning and undoubtedly cuss the Republican party for such "hard times." No breakfast—no nothing but their belief in the end of the world. Tough outlook!

If the "reformers" were consistent in their belief Ye Ed would be the first to admire them. Few are going to get the world is coming to an end, pray tell us pretty maiden, the use in segregating the proceeds from the old homestead sale at "headquarters" in Los Angeles or Podunk, or anyplace else.

Why not conscientiously believe the world's end at the same time keep the price of breakfast in case the Four Horsemen run into a cloud-burst or have tire trouble on the way.

LEGION LOSES TO HULLI TRUCK CREW

Well Developed Teamwork of League Leaders Prove Highly Effective

Setting a new record in City league basketball, the Hulli Trucks team, 65 to 25, last night at the Harvard High school gymnasium. The Legion men fought valiantly to overcome the big lead piled up by their opponents, but without avail. The smooth teamwork of the truckmen was too much for the Legion.

The service men were handicapped by the inability to practice, although the members of the team appeared at the gymnasium at 7 o'clock. Two makeshift teams occupied the floor until half an hour past the regular time for starting the league game, and the Legion men had to be contented with a few minutes of warming up before going against their seasoned opponents.

Jensen, center for the truckmen, was high point man, getting 24 markers, or just one less than the entire Legion team accounted for. Fanset, right forward on the winning team, ran Jensen a close second with 23 points. Liggett was high man for the Legionnaires, getting 11 points.

At the end of the first quarter the truckmen were leading 16 to 7. Jensen made three baskets, Fanset two baskets and a free throw, Doll one basket and free throw and Wilde a basket, for the truckmen in the opening stanza. Liggett accounted for four points and Powell made three for the service men.

In the second quarter the truckmen ran wild, shooting baskets almost at will. Jensen caged five, Doll got three, Fanset located the hoop twice and Wilson drew a big hand by making a basket. Powell was the only Legion man to score in the second quarter. The count stood 38 to 9 at the half.

The Legion men fought back in the third quarter, making ten points and holding the truckmen to eleven. Fanset led with three baskets, Doll got a basket and free throw and Jensen caged one. On the Legion side of the ledger, Mapes made two goals, and Buck and Liggett added three points each with a basket and free throw.

Final Quarter Fanset caged four baskets in the final quarter, while Jensen added three and Doll got one. The Legion men gathered six points. Liggett getting two baskets and Buck one. Liggett made several spectacular shots in the first quarter from the center of the floor.

The lineup:
Hull Trucks—65 Legion—25
Fanset (23)—P.F.—Liggett (11)
Doll (14)—F.—Bunker (0)
Jensen (24)—C.—Powell (5)
Wilde (2)—P.G.—McKay (0)
Wilson (2)—F.—Buck (0)
Substitutions: For Legion, Mapes (4) for Bunker, Schmidt for Buck, Waechter for Powell.

Score by Quarters
Hull Trucks 16 23 16 65
Legion 7 2 10 25

The Hulli Truck victory last night leaves the standings unchanged, although it gives the truckmen a firmer grasp on first place with four games won and no defeats. The Radios also have a clean slate with two victories and no defeats.

Standings in the cellar will be changed after tonight's battle between the Christian church and the Standard Oils, since both teams have been defeated twice. Dopesters are picking the oilers to break into the win column, but it will be a hard battle.

Another snappy game is scheduled for tomorrow night, when the Radios meet the M. E. church. The churchmen provided the first upset of the season last week by defeating the Oilers 25 to 15, and then turning around and beating the Legion 29 to 22.

Tonight's Faculty Five, composed of Coaches Hayhurst, Wolfe, Butterfield, Hicks and Pierce, all of the high school staff, will play a practice game against the Calla Lily creamery crew. The milkmen have won the name of the hard luck team of the league, dropping two fast and exciting games, one to Radios 29 to 27, and the other at Recreation, 28 to 25, after alternating in the lead in both contests.

BOWLING SCORES

M. L. Lund's Major league bowlers defeated the Red Feathers three games last night at Recreation. Howe of the winners was high game man and also had high total, 202-257-224. The score:

Players— M. L. LUND'S
Happings—182 213 187
Howe—202 257 224
Sattles—178 180 177
Faustic—183 141 154

GROCERY SHOP NOW TRAVELS ON WHEELS

Up-to-Date Merchant Is Not Content to Wait for Customers' Arrival

By J. C. ROYLE
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1923

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Storekeepers throughout the country are not only sitting on the velvet cushions as a result of present conditions, but they are putting rubber tires under their businesses with the aid of the truck manufacturer. No longer content to select a "dollar side" of a street and wait for customers to enter their doors, they are carrying their stores to the doors of their customers.

A dozen successful groceries on wheels are now making their daily rounds in various cities and country communities. One Detroit concern has broadened its rolling stocks to include hardware and builders' supply lines. The trucks carrying these supplies will circulate daily through the suburbs of that thriving industrial center, where more than 50,000 new homes are under construction.

Truck companies are not only taking the place of the morning milk train in collecting lacteal fluid from the farms, but are transporting it right to the consumers' ice boxes. These trucks are equipped with electric refrigeration operated on the same principle as the refrigerators in the newer type of houses and apartments. They have a capacity equal to that of the oil and gasoline trucks and also can be made to carry dozens of five-gallon cans along the sides.

Self-Cooled
An electric generator is driven by the truck engine which, with a system of storage batteries, produces a steady flow of current for cooling purposes. It is estimated that the saving in time in cooling and icing under former methods of handling and the consequent economy of space more than makes up for the added cost of transportation. Similar tank trucks are employed by the Coca Cola Co. and other soft drink manufacturers for supplying drug stores and fountains with syrup.

These tanks of liquid food conveyors are of glass construction, and by using a truck with six wheels with double width driving wheels a remarkable carrying capacity is achieved. One Detroit manufacturer now is making a truck of this description which will carry from 900 to 2000 gallons. For the latter size a seven-ton vehicle is required.

The traveling grocery store has been in operation for some time in varieties and is giving an excellent account of itself. The average investment for each store is estimated at approximately $5700 and the profit of each unit, according to one concern, which also operates eighty non-movable chain groceries, is equal to that of the average chain store establishment.

Waterways Used
Congestion of highways has turned attention of gasoline motor designers to the waterways of the country. Self-propelled cargo barges are being turned out in large quantities equipped in much the same way as the truck, but of infinitely larger carrying capacity. Makers are convinced that the development of water craft will turn the attention of the public to motor-boating. They are preparing to fill the motor-boat demand at Ford prices by turning out such craft on a quantity basis.

The Continental Motor corporation already is working out changes in motor-boat construction in preparation for a huge business. In conjunction with a boat-builder at Newport News, Va., the corporation plans to build a thirty-eight-foot cabin boat with galley, staterooms and many of the features heretofore found only in the most expensive type of launch, at a price around $5000, complete. If they can develop a large amount of business in this line, engineers figure that the price can be greatly reduced. At some future date they expect to see lakes and rivers covered with small gasoline craft, the purchase of which is made possible by the adoption of Ford methods of manufacture.

In the meantime, boats combining speed, power and carrying capacity continue to be in acute demand, regardless of price and speed boats probably will continue to command high prices as long as liquor carriers swing at anchor on rum row.

Boy Scouts Organize Grand View Owl Order

Boy Scouts of the Grand View district, sponsored by Grand View community church, organized an owl patrol last night with Charles Diefenbacher as leader, and Marion Mendoza as assistant. The Sunday night service at the church will celebrate national Boy Scout Sunday. Harvey R. Cheesman, local Scout executive, will be present to peak and present the troop with certificate and badges.

Church Members Plan Prayer Meet Tonight

Members of the Grand View Community church will hold prayer service at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the home of Mrs. Emma Dyer, 1169 Ruberta avenue.

Says Judgment Day Near

CHRISTOBEL PANKHURST, once the most militant advocate of equal suffrage, declares the women's cause in politics is a "lesser one" now. The reason is that the end of the world is near, she says. She had come to New York from her home in England to conduct a revival and proclaim the nearness of Judgment Day.

'WEDDING BELLS' FUNERAL SERVICE FINE ATTRACTION FOR PIONEER HELD

Repetition of Packed House
Opening Night Promised
Again Tonight

Promising again a repetition of the packed house which witnessed Monday night's premiere of "Wedding Bells" at the Playhouse theatre, reservations for tonight's presentation have poured into the box office.

Judging by the mirth and applause which greeted this scintillating comedy, no offering by the talented Dobinson Players has given more enjoyment than this to Glendale theatregoers. "Wedding Bells" was originally produced at the Harris theatre in New York, with Wallace Eddinger and Margaret Lawrence in the leading roles.

It was an instantaneous hit with Monday night's audience. A good laugh is worth more than medicine, some doctors say, and "Wedding Bells" assures that it is. It offers a heap of intelligent advice to the average person without resorting to the sugar-coated pill procedure. The trials and tribulations of the lovelorn Reggie; the ludicrous entanglements into which he and a well-meaning friend are tumbled; and the insistence of an ex-wife that there shall be no second Mrs. Reggie, provide entertainment that is different.

A feature of tonight's performance will be the first appearance of Carl Gantvoort, noted operatic and concert baritone, who carved a niche for himself in the hearts of Southern California music lovers last summer, when he appeared as soloist in Alfred Bertz's orchestra at Hollywood Bowl.

BLACK EYES TURN UP IN JAP DIET

Free-for-All Fight Features
Lawmakers' Debate on Education Point

TOKIO, Feb. 4.—Black eyes and bloody noses were much in evidence in today's session of the Japanese diet, following the free-for-all fight that broke out in the Chamber yesterday as a climax to one of the bitterest parliamentary controversies to ever rage in the Tokyo national assembly. It was the second fight to take place within a week.

The tumult yesterday broke out during debate on a resolution demanding increased subsidies for compulsory education, sponsored by the Seiyuhontō political party. Seiyuhontō members, resenting charges made by members of the Kenseikai party that the Seiyuhontō was supporting the measure for purely selfish reasons, attacked several Kenseikai debaters.

The speaker of the diet was compelled to order two recesses before the uproar subsided. Several of the more severely injured members of parliament threatened damage suits against their attackers.

Jewel Burglar Leaves Fingerprint Evidence

The home of J. L. Penderson at 1119 North Howard street, was burglarized last night, police reported today, and a number of articles of jewelry are missing. A fingerprint clue is being investigated by Sergeant F. C. Williams, expert in charge of this department.

Edward Wolback, jr., of 919 Orange Grove avenue, reported theft of a watch from his clothes, in the basement of the Wilson school, G. P. Smith of 1400 Fifth street, reported his uncle, William Babcock, aged 80, missing since noon yesterday. He left on a Pacific Electric car for Los Angeles and has not been seen since. The county sheriff's office has been notified.

A fire breaking out at 2:50 o'clock this morning in a box car on a siding near Sawyer Brothers' Co., 512-14 North San Fernando road, was extinguished with the aid of Lieutenant Louis Nunn and Officer T. M. Larson of the Glendale police department.

They have been spending a month with their son, Charles E. Millikan in Los Angeles.

LIONS CONSIDER PROPOSED BONDS

Glendale Den at Weekly
Luncheon Hear Both Sides of Issue

Endorsement of the $2,400,000 bond issues for the Glendale elementary and high school systems was discussed at the regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Glendale den of Lions today, following a talk in favor of both issues by Richardson D. White, superintendent of city schools, and it was decided to postpone action until next meeting in order that additional information might be secured.

A number of the members of the Lions' den signed, as individuals, an endorsement of both issues. P. J. Hayselden, secretary of the City Planning commission, also on the program as a speaker, did not talk today, in order that Superintendent White might have additional time to give information regarding the bonds.

To See Mission Play
A representative delegation of the local den will attend the Mission Play tonight, Glendale night, leaving the city in automobiles for San Gabriel. It is estimated more than 500 Glendale people will witness the performance.

Los Angeles den has challenged Glendale den to a golf match at the Oakmont Country club and Albert Pearce will head the Glendale golfers in the tournament. Today's meeting was held at Masonic temple, with President W. B. Kelly presiding. A musical program was given.

Masonic Club Formed At Highway Highlands

The new Masonic club of Highway Highlands was organized last night at a store building placed at their disposal by R. Q. MacDonald on Michigan boulevard. The program was given by F. W. Plaisted, former governor of Maine; William D. Southwick of Detroit and Washington, D. C.; Dr. J. D. Utley, C. A. Haskins, former president of the Montrose club; Mark S. Collins as host; H. H. Frazer, worshipful master of Tujunga lodge, and R. Q. MacDonald, readings were given by Mrs. Evelyn Pierce of Glendale, high priestess of the White Shrine; Mrs. H. C. McCoy of Montrose, violin solo by B. M. Rodet, accompanied by Mrs. R. Q. MacDonald, and impersonations by Mrs. Mary B. Darrow of La Crescenta.

L. C. Hall Is Injured When Struck by Auto

L. C. Hall of 215 West Magnolia avenue is a patient at the Glendale Sanitarium with a number of stitches in his scalp, following an accident last night, when he was struck by a passing car while crossing the street, according to reports filed at Glendale police headquarters. R. W. Brogan of 121 South Kenwood street, the driver of the car, declared the road was thick and he did not see Hall until he hit him.

MAH JONGG ELBOWS

LONDON, Feb. 4.—Bridge coats and mah jongg elbows are developments of this London season. The former are really charming house coats, short and simple in design, with narrow, close-fitting sleeves, usually of chiffon velvet. The mah jongg elbow is the discovery of an English duchess who learned too long about the ivory tiles. Now it is perfectly fashionable to appear with one's elbows bandaged or tinted with iodine.

COSTUME VOGUE

LONDON, Feb. 4.—Englishmen may hate "to be different," but this does not extend to English women. This is responsible for the vogue of the costume dress which gives opportunity of individual expression and the stressing of points of physical excellence. As a result, many bouffant or crinoline frocks are making their appearance at London parties.

WINGED CAPE

NICE, Feb. 4.—The winged cape has made its appearance for evening wear, in the soft airs of the Riviera, where warmth is secondary to artistic display. This really no back, since it splits from hem to collar in the rear. The arms are slipped through loops at the front and the garment hangs from either arm like wings, which may be folded as desired.

SPRING MERCHANDISE

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 4.—Spring merchandise is in good demand, especially work clothing and floor coverings. Reports from leading houses indicate January business was well ahead of that for December. Orders are coming in to wholesalers from a widely scattered territory.

In House of Lords Circle

Two more American women, wives of titled Britishers, have joined the society roster of British parliament, now containing ten American noblewomen. The two new additions are the COUNTESS CARNARVON, formerly Catherine Wendell, and (nee) the COUNTESS OF GALLOWAY, formerly Philippa Wendell. They are sisters, daughters of the late Jacob Wendell of New York.

URGES RESIDENTS TO SEE GLENDALE

Realty Board Will Sponsor
Visits to Industrial Plants In Future

The Glendale Realty board will sponsor a "Know Glendale Day" to be observed in the city in the near future and plans to have all citizens join in the celebration and visit all industrial plants and other commercial projects on the "Know Glendale Day." J. M. Boland and the civics committee will lay plans for the affair.

After stormy half hour's discussion at their meeting today at noon, the Realty board went on record endorsing the proposed grammar and high school bond issues. Chairman Boland of the civics committee will be in charge of promotion work to be carried on by the Realty board in favor of the bonds.

Reports from the following committee chairmen were given at the meeting today: appraisal committee, Peter Hanson; civics committee, M. Boland; education committee, D. C. Casselman; entertainment committee, Jack Galvin; finance committee, E. P. Haywood; grammar and high school committee, James W. Pearson; program committee, A. H. Voelker; reception committee, E. M. Ingledue. The meeting was held at the Harriett Mae Tea room.

Greece, Turkey Stand Ready to Wage War

ATHENS, Feb. 4.—Animosities against the Turks has flamed anew. Demonstrations were reported in many towns and villages as a protest against the expulsion of the ecumenical patriarch from Constantinople. The Greek assembly voted to reject the Geneva protocol, determined it was pointed out, to proceed unhampered by other nations in its purpose to settle its score with Turkey.

"We shall use our efforts to bring about a peaceful settlement," said Premier Michalakopoulos, "but we have our sacred duty to uphold. Our national honor has been impugned and it must be defended at all costs." The premier consulted with army chiefs on the relative strength of the Greek army. General Mazarakis reported, it was understood, that the army was prepared to defend the nation's honor.

Greeks May Boycott

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 4.—The official Turkish reply to the Greek note of protest over the expulsion from Constantinople of the ecumenical patriarch maintains that the expulsion was not an infringement of the Lausanne treaty, it was announced today.

The Turkish government, in the note, declines to accept arbitration by The Hague court. Newspapers predict that the Greeks will boycott Constantinople.

HAT SCARF'S ROLE

PARIS, Feb. 4.—One spring hat in its time plays many parts, that is, if it is trimmed with a scarf as so many are at present. The scarf may be draped about the hat in new fashion each day, or the small, round, turned-back picot hat may be worn alone and the scarf thrown about the neck or shoulder.

COOLIDGE IS WATCHING PENNIES

Thrift Campaign in Bureaus
Pushed, Red Tape Goes,
Means Business

By ROBERT T. SMALL
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1923

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—President Coolidge has got every government official in Washington watching the pennies. It is the first time that an economy wave in the government has been taken in earnest. Everybody knows by now that there are to be at least four years more of the Coolidge administration and they know that each one of those years, each month in fact, is to bring a watchfulness which will bode no good for the man who fails to co-operate in the plan of cutting down expenditures.

The economic wave has struck everywhere except at the capitol where on the democratic side of both senate and house there is skepticism and a charge of politics.

It is difficult for Washington to take a prolonged siege of economy seriously. There have been intermittent waves in the past. The order has gone forth many times to cut down expenditures, to pare estimates and to make the budget balance on the right side of the ledger. Washington has been tolerant of the various moves. It has felt that the president urging the cuts was interested in the subject in more or less an academic manner.

Born to Thrift

With Mr. Coolidge it is different. He has been reared in the atmosphere of thrift and economy. He has been taught to know the value of the penny. The effort he is making to cut down expenditures is no passing whim. He may be cognizant of the fact that governmental economy is a good move to make politically in times of high taxes. But there are plenty of the president's political enemies who know in their hearts, that economy in official as well as private life, is a sort of passion with the chief executive. They also know that in his private life, in his personal expenditures, he is setting the example which he expects not only officials but the American people themselves to follow.

For the president has a wider program in mind than mere governmental thrift. He would like for every American household to go upon a budget basis. He would like every man, every family not only to live within its income, but to save a large percentage of the weekly or monthly earnings.

Red Tape Abolished
The president believes in prosperity. He wants everyone to share it. But to his mind the only sort of lasting prosperity is based upon thrift and making the greatest use of one's money. He does not believe that a property based upon wild extravagance with debt can be a permanent or helpful to the people.

So the country at large need not laugh at the announcement that government departments are giving up red tape as a binding cord for packages and documents, and is resorting to the use of plain white cotton string. It need not laugh at the fact that postal bags are no longer to have a blue streak in them, because if made of plain material, the saving to the government will be $49,000 a year. Department heads and bureau chiefs in the government are actually looking to the pennies at last and customs hoary with age are being brought to help in the thrift program. If the bureau chiefs do not find the means of saving, they will walk the plank.

President Coolidge does not believe the government is "deflated" from war standards. But they will be soon. Washington has got to put on a New England cloak whether it likes it or not.

PUT UP NETS

The nets are being strung today at the Patterson avenue park municipal tennis grounds, reports R. Ernest Tucker, superintendent of recreation.

Dressed as they are to encourage mosquito attacks, it might be as well to call them slappers.

CITY PRINTING PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE OF THE RECORDING OF THE ASSESSMENT AND DIAGRAM FOR THE IMPROVING AND WIDENING OF FIFTH STREET IN THE CITY OF GLENDALE. NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that the assessment and diagram for the opening of Fifth Street from the westerly line of Grandview Avenue to the northwesterly corner of Tract No. 4690, as per map recorded in Book 59, Page 28 of Maps, Records and Return of the County of Los Angeles, California, in the manner contemplated by Ordinance No. 722 of said City, adopted and approved 28th day of December, 1922, was recorded in the office of the Street Superintendent of the City of Glendale, on the 9th day of January, 1923.

All sums levied in said assessment are due and payable immediately, and payment of said sums is to be made to me in my office, at the City Hall, Glendale, California, within thirty (30) days after the date of the first publication of this notice.

All assessments not paid before the expiration of said thirty (30) days will become delinquent, and thereupon five (5) per cent. will be added thereto, and the property advertised for sale as provided by law.

JOHN F. JOHANNSEN, Street Superintendent of the City of Glendale.

CITY IS URGED TO RECEIVE SOLONS

State Legislature to Visit
Los Angeles; Glendale
Asked to Be Host

By GIL A. COWAN
Of The Evening News Staff.

Plans are nearly completed for a visit of the State Legislature to Los Angeles the first of March. The county Board of Supervisors is awaiting a ruling on the legality of a $15,000 fund to be added to that raised by civic organizations in the metropolitan area for the purpose of entertaining the solons.

It is very probable that the legislative party will come directly from Sacramento over the Southern Pacific and it would behoove Glendale to enter into the arrangements to the extent of having the lawmakers detain here for breakfast after which they could be taken through Hollywood or Pasadena by motor car into Los Angeles metropolitan area.

Hugh Pomeroy, secretary of the Los Angeles County Regional Planning Commission, a former assemblyman, is actively interested in the program of entertaining the legislature. A. G. Arnoll, secretary of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, which also is sponsoring the idea, is a resident of Glendale.

County Supervisor Henry W. Wright, former speaker of the assembly, represents this district. Attorney Frank C. Weller, chairman of the assembly judiciary committee, resides here and these two also should take active part in seeing that Glendale is the welcoming host in the solons' visit to the southland.

Writer Suggests
Should the idea be feasible, the writer would suggest that after the party detains at the new $100,000 Southern Pacific station they be taken by automobile through the business district of Glendale to the new million dollar high school plant, where breakfast would be served.

From there the entertainment could quickly go through Pasadena into Los Angeles and in less time than it would take for them to enter Los Angeles by train they would be delivered over to the city's entertainment committee.

There are 120 members of the legislature, 120 senators and eighty assemblymen. Many would have their wives with them, making a party of approximately 150. They are a representative group of farmers, business men and professional men and women who will carry the story of the southland's marvelous development to their homes.

It behooves the Los Angeles committee that the solons see the growth of the residential area equally as much as the sky-scrapers in the city filled canyons of the metropolis. To first show them the homes and the typical example of school life, as exemplified in Glendale, would be a pleasant preface to their visit.

And this reception, as outlined, would have the effect of showing the senators and assemblymen that there are other cities besides Los Angeles concerned in the problem of reapportionment. The party cannot help but believe that two hours, between 7 a. m. and 9 a. m. on the morning of the party's arrival, would be well devoted if given over to Glendale and Pasadena.

FROM EAGLE ROCK

EAGLE ROCK, Feb. 4.—The Occidental-York Valley Improvement association met Monday night at the York Valley Presbyterian church, when Mrs. Harry R. Collins, president, outlined steps necessary to secure the paving of Glassell avenue, long known as "the rocky road to Dublin."

Mrs. Collins has announced her candidacy for councilmanic honors in this district and a large number of her followers were present at the meeting. If elected, she declares she will wage an untiring fight for local improvements.

Yesterday afternoon the Study section of the Twentieth Century club heard Mrs. E. K. Foster of Los Angeles, a prominent club woman and traveler, speak on Ceylon. The speaker has just returned from a trip around the world and brought with her many curios and souvenirs to help illustrate her talk.

The P. T. A. Federation will meet February 5 at the Choral hall, Philharmonic auditorium, Los Angeles. There will be two sessions one at 10 o'clock and the second at 1:30 o'clock.

The representatives from Eagle Rock will be Mrs. John Mengel, Mrs. Collier and Mrs. A. H. Harrison. The local branch will be glad if other members will make it convenient to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Debra Hall of Neely, Neb., who had been spending the winter in San Luis Obispo with their daughter, later their uncle, E. A. Burnett, of 5124 Eagle Rock boulevard, will return to San Luis Obispo the latter part of the week.

C. A. Kirksey is home from a business trip to Texas. He recently sold his farm near Waxahachie, and expects in the near future to spend all his time in Eagle Rock.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheriger, who at one time lived here and will be remembered by older residents, are spending this winter in Florida.

ADVENTIST LEADERS PREPARE STATEMENT

Pacific Union Conference President
And Head of Southern California
Conference State Position

In view of the notoriety brought by the prediction of Mrs. Margaret W. Rowen that the world will end Friday, February 6, the following official statement has been prepared by Elder J. L. McElhany, president of the Pacific Union conference, and Elder O. O. Bernstein, president of the Southern California conference, and is released exclusively to The Glendale Evening News as a definition of the Seventh-day Adventist stand in the controversy:

"A great deal of publicity has been given recently to the predictions of a professed prophetess living in Hollywood that the coming of Christ will take place Friday the sixth of the present week. This so-called prophetess is the head of a little group of people styling themselves the 'Reformed Seventh-day Adventists.' Inasmuch as many well-meaning people are inclined to confuse them with the Seventh-day Adventist denomination, it is due the public that a frank statement be made which will make clear the distinction.

"Six years ago the leaders of this group were excommunicated from the Seventh-day Adventist church in Los Angeles because of their pretensions and teachings. They have continued to maintain their views and claims to divine revelation, and have added a few others to their number. A little more than a year ago their prophetess set forth the claim that it had been revealed to her that probation would close February 6, 1924, and the Lord would come bringing and end to this world February 6, 1925. A statement of our position as a denomination regarding this subject, which follows, should be ample justification for our action in separating these people from our body six years ago.

Express Views
"We believe in the literal, personal coming of the Lord in fulfillment of His promise to His disciples in John 14:1 to 3, and in Acts 1:11. We believe that we may know His coming is near as He commands in Matt. 24:33, but we as strongly believe that we may not know the time of that coming. Our position in this matter is stated in scriptures found in Matt. 24:36, 42, 44, Mark 13:32, 35, Luke 21:33 to 36, and in Acts 1:7, where it is plainly revealed that it is not for us to know the time.

"We have held this position from the beginning of our history. Never has our denomination set the time for the Lord to come, and in the very nature of our belief we never can. It is stated in one of our oldest and most authoritative books, to

Date For Doomsday Might By Mistake, Admits Dr. Fullmer

Dr. B. E. Fullmer of 1112 Gower street, Los Angeles, leader in the Seventh-day Adventist reformed church, warns the 1,748,000 inhabitants of the world that the day of judgment will come to pass on Friday, February 6, 1925, that earthly life will cease to exist and that "the pure in heart will be taken unto their Lord."

With calm deliberation Dr. Fullmer cited scriptural passages, bearing out the prophecy made by Mrs. Margaret Rowen, much talked of prophetess, upon whose prediction members of the reformed church are basing their preparations for the end Friday. "Everyone expects to die some time, and it does not of necessity bring panic. Then why be panicky if it comes on a certain day?" Every Christian should so have lived that he would be ready to meet his God at any time," says Dr. Fullmer.

His message to the world is one of assurance, devoid of sensationalism, which he decries in connection with the prophecy. Above all he wishes to emphasize that the Seventh-day Adventists as a denomination are not responsible for the setting of an exact date for the end on Friday. While that church has excommunicated him, he bears but good will for his former friends. He declares that he is identical in belief with the Seventh-day Adventist denomination, except in the belief that all the population of the world but 144,000 can be saved.

Might Be Mistaken
As to the possibility of a mistake in the prediction, Dr. Fullmer candidly says that there is that possibility, that no man knows but that it is by faith in the prophecies made by Mrs. Rowen which have proved to be true.

For eight years Dr. Fullmer watched and verified prophecies of Mrs. Rowen. As clergyman, as physician, as searcher after truth, Dr. Fullmer says that he has watched Mrs. Rowen while she was prophesying, and today he believes that her prophecies are of divine origin and that this woman is a prophetess of God, just as the Seventh-day Adventists believe that Mrs. E. G. White was a prophetess.

Dr. Fullmer states that he and his associates in the reformed church are preparing to meet the day of judgment quietly in their own homes. When asked "On Friday morning, what will you do? How will you meet the day? Will you gather on a hillside clad in robes of white?" He replied, "No, nor will we have moving picture cameras to take our pictures."

Will Stand Criticism
"But if it should not be the last day?" Dr. Fullmer was asked. His answer was, "If the end does not come, then I have as long to prepare for it as anyone; but if it does, I am prepared. If it does not, then I want to take my full share of the criticism, and more than a full share. It's faith, purely faith, and as in the great crises of the world God has warned His people, so do we believe today that the warning has been sounded. I deeply regret the undue and not always true publicity that has been given our belief."

It is said during the last days Mrs. Rowen has gone into seclusion, saying that she prefers not to have visitors, especially on Friday. On that day she says she will go about her household duties waiting for what the day may bring.

INFORMATION IS GIVEN OUT ON BONDS

Committee Issues Facts and Figures In Form of Questions, Answers

The publicity committee in charge of the campaign for the $2,400,000 school bonds submits the following to The Glendale Evening News for publication:

What Will Happen If the Bonds Do Carry?

Question: For how long a period will this bond money be sufficient?

Answer: As far as sites are concerned it will probably take care of our needs, for five years or longer. As to buildings, that will of course depend upon the growth and development of the different sections of the city.

Question: What will each district obtain from this bond issue?

Answer: The entire school district has been carefully surveyed and the needs of each community will be met in the best possible way. This is equally true for both high and elementary schools.

Question: How will the bond issue affect the tax rate?

Answer: (a) Notwithstanding the fact that this is a large bond issue it will only slightly increase the school tax rate next year. It will be much less than one realizes.

(b) It is estimated that the increase in the tax on grammar school bonds would be 16 1-3 cents per hundred and the increase in the tax on the high school bonds would be 12 cents per hundred if it were not for the following facts:

1. A certain proportion of the outstanding bonded indebtedness will be paid off thereby decreasing the payment on principal and interest coming due next year.

2. The bonds may be sold, as school bonds usually are, at a premium which would be applied to pay the first installment of principal and interest.

Question: Do these proposed bond issues dangerously approach the legal bonding limit for school purposes?

Answer: They do not.

General Electric Faces Senate Trust Charges

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The General Electric Co. would be subjected to a federal investigation on charges of "maintaining a trust monopoly," in the electric world, under terms of a resolution unanimously adopted by the Senate Interstate Commerce committee. The committee's action is a direct result of the resolution by the Senate. The investigation will be conducted by the federal trade commission.

Five Dead When Greek 'Reds' Oppose Warfare

LONDON, Feb. 4.—Five persons, communists and police, were killed, four were wounded and many communists were arrested at Tricala, a Greek town in Thessaly, when communists staged a demonstration in opposition to Greece going to war, according to a dispatch to the Central News.

FLOODS DAMAGE

ATLANTA, Feb. 4.—Damage by floods to crops and cattle in middle and southern Georgia is estimated by state authorities at $1,000,000. Tobacco lands will have to be prepared again in some sections. Large numbers of cattle, sheep and hogs were destroyed and many plantations, roads and bridges destroyed. The slight decline in retail business in January is attributed to the check to building operations caused by inclement weather.

RAILWAY'S PLANS

DETROIT, Feb. 4.—The Pere Marquette railway will spend approximately $3,000,000 on its various divisions this year for improvement of service. The new program provides for expenditure of $575,000 for new rails and ballasting, building of ninety-nine miles of line and construction of many bridges and grade crossings.

COOK IS JAILED

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 4.—The United States circuit court of appeals, in an opinion handed down here, affirmed the conviction of Dr. Frederick A. Cook, Arctic explorer, who last year was found guilty in Fort Worth, Tex., of twelve counts for using the mails to defraud. He was sentenced to serve fourteen years' imprisonment.

Complimented
By Auxiliary
In a letter to The Glendale Evening News the Women's Auxiliary of Glendale Legion post, No. 127, expresses thanks for publicity and co-operation given Mrs. Helen E. McBryde, secretary of the auxiliary, writes:
"Glendale Unit 127, American Legion Auxiliary desires to thank you for your splendid co-operation in our work for 1924. We particularly thank Mrs. J. L. Stanley and Katherine V. Sinks for their courtesies and prompt attention to all our needs. We trust 1925 may bring as pleasant relations with your paper."

'FIDDLERS' KING'
DIES IN HUNGARY
Aged Violinist Is Buried
With Regal Pomp as Gypsies Mourn
BUDAPEST, Feb. 4.—The funeral of Marci Banda, the most celebrated of Hungarian fiddlers, who died recently, at the age of 75, was a regal affair and was attended at Waltham, near this city, by all the principal gypsy fiddlers in the country.
Banda's favorite melodies were played at the graveside by such a galaxy of famous fiddlers as Hungary has never before seen. How Banda came to be the "Fiddlers' King" makes good reading.
His predecessor was a well-known fiddler named Racz, and Banda challenged him to a "fid die duel" for his title. The "duel" was "fought" for over an hour before an audience of thousands, but the judges could not agree upon a verdict, or did not dare, for passions had become uncontrollably high after the fiddling.
The crowd tacitly agreed, however, that Banda had justified his claim to being Hungary's supreme fiddler.

Paige-Detroit Motors
Raises Car Price $60
NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Price advances and declines were announced today by manufacturers of motor cars and trucks. The Paige-Detroit Motor Co. advanced the price of Jewett cars $60 for each model, effective February 15. The White Motor Co. announced reductions ranging from $250 to $300 in light delivery models of White trucks. The reductions affect four of the ten models, including both three-quarter-ton models and both two-ton models.

PARIS AGREEMENT
WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—President Coolidge has transmitted to the Senate an official copy of the "Paris agreement," under which the United States becomes a partner in the Dawes plan in return for a percentage of the reparations receipts from Germany. The agreement was sent to the Senate at the request of that body, although Secretary of State Hughes holds that it is binding upon the United States without Senate ratification.

ADD SEVENTY-SIX MEMBERS TO C. C.

Record for Month's Work
Is Set During January;
Committee Named

All previous records for new memberships obtained within one month's time were shattered by Membership Secretary Lawrence Grady of Glendale Chamber of Commerce during January, according to an announcement by Secretary Howard L. Wood before the board of directors last night. A total of seventy-six new members were enrolled during the first month of 1925. This is by far the largest number ever signed within 30 days' time excepting during concentrated drives. Months ago the Glendale Chamber of Commerce abandoned the drive method of securing new members. Constant solicitation by Mr. Grady who in the future will be assisted by a large membership committee, is the only means invoked by the chamber to secure additional members.

Dr. T. C. Young, membership chairman, told the board that although the January record was made by Mr. Grady single-handed, in the future his committee will be in a position to function actively in securing memberships. Fifteen men and women have been appointed by Dr. Young on the membership committee.

In turn, each of these will appoint five helpers, bringing the total list on the committee to seventy-five members. Data concerning newcomers to Glendale are being compiled by Dr. Young's committee with the assistance of the city departments, telephone company and gas office.

Thirteen members were admitted to the chamber by unanimous vote of the directors last night. They are: Van De Kamp's Holland-Dutch bakery, John Neuschaefer, American Florist, Layrite Hardwood Floors, J. T. Gaskill, Hunt & Bowers Fur Co., J. G. Kosababian, Jameson Co., Charles U. House, Glendale Creamery Co. Inc., John P. Mathews, Paul A. Leuthner and Buffalo Dye Works.

Plan Temple of Music For City In Future

Frank Thomas, director; Mrs. E. R. Ripley, director; Mrs. Edwin Cleophas, director; Mrs. Calvin Whiting, director; Mrs. Charles Marlenee, auditor and chairman of the finance auxiliary; Mrs. Robert T. Young, financial secretary; Mrs. Warren Roberts, treasurer; Miss Myrtle Baldwin, second vice-president; Mrs. E. V. Cunningham, first vice-president; Mrs. Frank Arnold, Mrs. Nathan Rigdon and Wesley Kuhnle of the board were unable to be present.

Reception Held
Following the program an informal reception was held in the palm room of the clubhouse. Mrs. Colin Cable, hospitality chairman, presided over the refreshment table.

Miss Gertrude Cleophas, Glendale pianist, who lives at 337 North Central avenue, was featured artist on the program. Miss Cleophas' talents are well known to Glendale music lovers. An artist of ability and with a background of study in Vienna under Leschetzky, and successful professional appearances abroad and in the United States, Miss Cleophas is deserving of the many compliments she received. Last night her fellow club members and friends were happy to hear her in an excellent program. Miss Cleophas is chairman of the Artists' section of the club.

Maurice La Vove, Russian baritone, who has recently come to Glendale, also appeared on the program. He was accompanied by Mrs. Guy Bush. Handicapped by a severe cold, Mr. La Vove was not able to demonstrate the full possibilities of his voice. However, his audience was able to judge of its good quality, his fine enunciation and dramatic ability.

More than $5,000,000 worth of American made radio apparatus was sold in other parts of the world last year.

Owner Of Dog Now Missing Waxes Poetic

"That Lost Dog of Mine" might be the title of the lament of M. H. Jones of 1306 East Broadway, who has lost his pet bull pup. Mr. Jones wrote the following parody on a popular song "hit, in hopes that it will help him locate "Sonny."

I wonder what's become of Sonny
That little bull pup of mine;
The sunshine is gone from our alley
Ever since the day Sonny stole away.
No matter what he did
Wherever he may be
If anybody knows of his whereabouts
Please slip the news to me.
I'll always welcome back my Sonny
That white bull pup of mine.

Chamber Budget Calls For $15,650 for 1925

Fernando announced last night its withdrawal from the field of contestants for the new University of California site. San Fernando will now work for the acceptance of the Burbank site.

The Chamber of Commerce will co-operate with the Glendale Advancement association in staging a celebration on February 1, when juice will be turned into the new ornamental lighting system on Glendale avenue.

Proposed designs for an official Chamber of Commerce banner were exhibited to the board last night by Director George Lyons, chairman of the banner committee.

BURBANK NEWS

BURBANK, Feb. 4.—Building permits totaling a valuation of $118,975 were issued here during January. The figure for January last year was $233,085. In December, 1924, permits totaling $129,211 were issued.

There was a total of fifty-nine permits issued for new buildings, ranging from a $100 dog house to a $20,000 bungalow court. The largest permit was for the 16-unit court being constructed at 148 Santa Anita avenue by the Schuler Investment Co.

Following is a table of comparison that summarizes the current building situation in Burbank:

	1924	1925
January	$233,085	$118,975
February	232,286
March	292,068
April	213,745

November	165,115
December	129,305

Totals $2,178,211 $118,975
Rev. Charles R. Drake, formerly pastor of the Christian church at Santa Rosa, has accepted the call to head that denomination here. Sunday morning he preached his first sermon to the new congregation, his remarks being well received. He is a friend of J. O. Bishop, assistant manager of the Burbank branch, Security Trust & Savings bank, and it is said to be through Mr. Bishop's influence that he was led to come here.

The Burbank fire boys are in on the ground floor for the St. Patrick's day date. They have carried out announcing a St. Patrick's ball at the Palais Majestic, Tuesday, March 17.

Prize Cats to Show At Glendale Exhibit

Prize cats belonging to members of the Glendale Cat club will be exhibited Saturday from 10 o'clock in the morning until 10 o'clock at night at a club show at 520 East Broadway. Mrs. Frank Archer, formerly of Vancouver, B. C., will be judge.
